SMITH, FOSE AND FIEDLER LOSE PLACES

Gmeiner Loses One Precinct in Third Ward but Has Landslide in Other

FOSE IS OVERWHELMED

Catlin, Earle and McGillan Retain Council Seats Without Much Trouble

Three new aldermen will take their places on the common council when it reorganizes for the new year on April 19 as a result of Tuesday's election. The new aldermen are:

Walter Gmeiner, succeeding Charles F. Smith in the Third ward.

W. H. Vanderheyden succeeding Charles Fose in the Fifth ward.

Phillip Vogt succeeding J. H. Fiedler in the Sixth ward.

All the other candidates for reelection had opposition but none of them were hard pressed. In the Second ward Paul Sell, who was nominated in a last minute campaign in the primaries, carried one precinct by one vote but he was overhelmed in the other and lost the election. In the Fourth ward C. J. Wassenberg carried one precinct over R. F. McGillan but he lost the other by a big majority and McGillan was elected.

Incumbent aldermen who lost their places were badly beaten. Smith lost the Third ward to Gmeiner by 235 votes; Vanderheyden defeated Fose in the Fifth ward by 142 votes and Fiedler trailed Vogt by 73 votes in the Sixth ward.

Fose and Fiedler lost both precincts in their wards while Smith carried one in his bailiwick but he was outdistanced in the other. The campaigns in all three wards were sharp and hard fought.

Catlin had no difficulty in winning over F. M. Shoemaker in the first ward, carrying both precincts for a majority of about 190 votes.

In the fourth ward McGillan lost the first precinct by two votes but came back strong in the second and buried Wassenberg under 116 majority, giving the race to the incumbent by 114 votes.

Here is a record of the vote:

DE PINEDO PLANE IN FLAMES; COMMANDER AND CREW NOT HURT

Apache Lodge, Roosevelt Dam, Ariz.—(AP)—The inter-continental flight of Commander Francesco De Pinedo came to a disastrous end at 12:05 Wednesday when the Santa Maria caught fire as the plane was being put under way preparatory to taking off for San Diego from Roosevelt dam.

The Santa Maria had arrived here at 10:14 Wednesday morning, mountain time, from Elephant Butte Dam, N. M., and had stopped at Roosevelt lake to refuel. The Italian flier, who flew over dangerous Brazilian jungles without mishap, had intended to reach San Diego by 4 o'clock, Pacific time. The plane is a total loss. Commander De Pinedo and his crew escaped uninjured.

G. O. P. ALARMED AT GAINS MADE BY AL SMITH

Campaign of 1928 Actively Begun—Lowden Ready to Be Candidate

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1927 by Post Pub. Co.)

Washington—The presidential campaign of 1928 has really begun. The announcement by former Governor Lowden of Illinois that he is a receptive candidate for the Republican candidacy is the beginning of the fight against President Coolidge. In the Democratic party the sudden rise of Al Smith's stock has caused considerable alarm to the Republican politicians in the empire state, who had hoped that the nomination of some one else beside Al Smith would make certain a Republican victory for the state ticket in New York, which usually wins in a presidential year.

Governor Lowden's declaration that he will be a candidate if the agricultural west wants him is interpreted here to mean that enough western states will demand his nomination and make it obligatory for him to seek delegates in other states. The importance of the Lowden movement is that action will be forced in the Coolidge camp. The hope that a passive silence could be maintained until the spring of 1928 at least will probably vanish.

G. O. P. SURVEY

Already former Senator William Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the Republican national committee, and Charles D. Hilles, a former Republican chairman, are beginning a "survey" of the national political situation. A series of conferences have been held and more of them are in prospect. This is the first step toward the lining up of delegates. It is the initial effort to discover just where the organization leaders stand in the several states. In politics a candidate who gets his delegates pledged early in the game is conceded to have an advantage.

While Mr. Coolidge himself has said no word about seeking another term, most of the organization Republicans are taking it for granted that he will

JANESVILLE IN APPROVAL OF MANAGER RULE

Naval Reserve Commander Has Majority of 3,000 Over Mayor Weisner

Green Bay—(AP)—James H. McGillan, attorney and commander of the Green Bay unit of the United States Naval reserve, was swept into the mayorship of this city Tuesday by a majority of nearly 3,000 votes over Wenzel Weisner, incumbent. It was one of the hardest fought political battles in Green Bay's history, bringing out a record vote. Twenty councilmen were elected. It was the first election since the commission form of government went out last fall.

2,000 VOTES CAST

Janesville—(AP)—With less than 2,000 votes cast, the smallest ever remembered in the last 15 years, Janesville elected four members of the council Tuesday who favor the support of city manager form of government. In the county G. T. Longbotham was elected county superintendent of schools and Chester Christianson, municipal judge of the Beloit court. Christianson was appointee of Governor Zimmerman to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge John H. Clark.

MAY RECOUNT AT KENOSHA

Kenosha —(AP)— Joseph Josephson, an electrical contractor, and Jacob Hermann, a druggist, were elected to places on the city council of Kenosha's city manager form of government in the election here Tuesday. Prospects for a recount in the election of school commissioner loomed up when Sydney M. Jones was elected by a single vote 3,117 to 3,116, for the third vacancy on the board, nosing out Mrs. Rose B. McClucky, former member of the board. The other members of the board elected were George Cook and Fred J. Joerndt.

SAUTHOFF'S PARTNER WINS

Madison—(AP)—George Kroncke, law partner of state Senator Harry Sauthoff, was assured of election as county judge of Dane-co Wednesday when returns from Tuesday's election showed him leading Robert N. Nelson by nearly two thousand votes. The vote, Kroncke, 10,138; Nelson, 8,257, was for 67 of Dane-co's 78 precincts.

Mr. Kroncke's plurality was piled up in the city of Madison, where he took a lead of 2,498 votes to overcome Mr. Nelson's lead of 617, obtained in Stoughton and rural precincts. Madison elected two school board members and ten aldermen. Only five of the latter group had opposition.

RECORD VOTE AT ASHLAND

Ashland—(AP)—Smothering his opponent under a landslide of ballots, Attorney M. E. Dillon, favorite in the mayoralty race here secured the election by a majority of 1,100 votes Tuesday. John Sandstrom, defeated candidate, received 1,106 votes to Dillon's 2,206.

Four new faces will appear in the city council as the result of the election, three incumbents losing to their opponents, and the other one not being a candidate for reelection. A record-breaking vote was cast here, due to the intense interest in the race for mayor, and two contests in one of the city wards.

In the three-cornered race for the office of county superintendent of schools, Thomas O'Connell, incumbent, was defeated by Richard Taggert by five votes, according to the unofficial election night count. Taggert polled 943 votes, as compared to

Hundreds Flock To Pure Food Show On First Day

Hundreds of people flocked to the armory Wednesday afternoon to attend the initial program of Appleton's first Pure Food and Better Homes show which opened for four days under auspices of the Appleton Post-Crescent. That thousands would see the exposition before it closes Saturday evening was the opinion expressed by exhibitors.

The interior of the armory was gayly bedecked in bright colored crepe paper, signs and pictures. The ceiling was hidden from view by a canopy of red, white and blue crepe paper manufactured by the Tuttle Press. This is the fireproof paper manufactured by the company, the same that was used last fall to decorate the exposition building at the Wisconsin State fair at Milwaukee.

Booths arrayed along the two sides of the room, filled with food products and home equipment of practically every conceivable description, presented a striking picture to the observer as he entered the building. The model home, a white, four-room bungalow, surrounded with flowers and greens, furnished a beautiful back ground at the south end of the armory floor. In the rear of the home was an electrical display which actually was astounding. Merchants placed the finishing touches on their exhibits Wednesday morning, completing all their work shortly before noon. The model home was completed Tuesday, and those furnishings which were not installed in it the same day were placed there Wednesday.

The show will continue Wednesday evening, and each afternon and evening thereafter until Saturday night. The program will be entertaining as well as instructive at each showing. Music and other entertainment features will be presented, and educational talks will be delivered so that every minute of everybody's visit there will be pleasant.

Boost In Pay For State Legislators Is Doubtful

Milwaukee—(AP)—The trend of the early returns from scattered sections of Wisconsin Wednesday indicated that the proposed plan to exempt forest and unmined mineral land from taxation would be approved. The outlook for the Wisconsin legislature realizing a long cherished ambition for a larger salary appeared doubtful upon the basis of the returns from the same district. The voters were asked to approve an increase of $500, to bring the salary of members of the senate and asembly to $1,000 a session.

Milwaukee-co was the first to report complete returns on the two proposals, which with the unopposed candidacy of Associate Justice Walter C. Owen of the state supreme court, were the only questions for statewide voting at the spring election Tuesday.

The forest tax exemption plan carried by 11,000 in Milwaukee-co while the salary increase was approved by less than 1,000 votes. Voting generally was light and interest in many cities centered in sharp mayoralty contests. Several judges and county superintendents of schools were chosen, and referendums on public improvements decided.

ONEIDA INDIANS HELD FOR TRIAL IN CANADA

Montreal—(AP)—Charged with raising a fund among Canadian Indians to 'buy back the state of New York for the red men," Orrin Kellogg, his wife, Mrs. Laura Kellogg, and William K. Cornelius of Wisconsin, Monday were held by Chief Judge De Carlo for trial at the next session of the court of king's bench in May. They are charged with conspiracy against the Indians of various Canadian reservations, including those of Caughnawaga, Laurette and Valleyfield.

CLAIMS VOTE VICTORY BEHIND BARS OF JAIL

Menominee, Mich.—(AP)—Kept from an election campaign by his confinement in the county jail here, charged with felonious assault, Constable Ray Carnegie of Bagley, Mich., was nevertheless successful in his run for reelection, according to his statement. Carnegie will be called for hearing on the charge at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon before Justice John E. Jones.

17 MEN KILLED IN WYOMING OIL PLANT BLAST; TWO MISSING

Parco, Wyo.—(AP)—The death toll in the explosion in the producers and refiners oil refining plant here early Wednesday reached 17 at noon, with the death of Calvin Smith in a hospital at Rawlins. Sixteen bodies have been taken from the plant, 14 of which have been identified. The fire caused damage of $500,000 to the refinery. The disaster was caused by the explosion of a chamber in a high pressure still which set fire to nine other stills and two storage tanks. The fire still was burning late Wednesday morning, but was under control.

REED TURNS GUNS ON F. O. LOWDEN IN TRIAL

Missouri Senator Questions Sapiro on Status of Former Illinois Governor

Detroit — (AP) — Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief of Henry Ford's defense counsel, and mentioned in many quarters as an outstanding possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination, exchanged angry words Wednesday with Aaron Sapiro over the status of Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, regarded by some as Republican party presidential nominee timber.

Senator Reed was seeking to gain from Sapiro under cross-examination in his $1,000,000 libel suit against the automobile manufacturer, a history of the national cooperative organizations he had represented.

He hit upon the National Wheat Growers advisor committee formed at a meeting called in Chicago in September, 1923.

In the list who attended was Mr. Lowden, who became chairman of the committee. Reed ran hurriedly down the long list of members. At Mr. Lowden's name he halted.

"He wasn't a wheat grower was he?" Reed demanded.

"He is a capitalist isn't he?"

"No," replied Sapiro.

"And been governor of Illinois?"

"No." He is not a capitalist," heatedly replied Sapiro. "He is a splendid lawyer and a very fine farmer probably the largest farmer in some respects in the entire United States."

"Does he make his living farming or is he the son in law of Pullman of the Pullman Car Co?" demanded Reed in a tone of sarcasm.

"I don't think he makes his living as the son-in-law of Pullman," responded Sapiro. "He makes his living by his work as a lawyer and by his work as a farmer."

PERE MARQUETTE MAY ISSUE STOCK DIVIDEND

New York — (AP)—Directors of the Pere Marquette Railway Co. Wednesday called a special meeting of stockholders for May 18 to vote on a 20 per cent stock dividend, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce commission and other necessary public authorities.

BAYER LOSES SEAT HE HELD FOR 17 YEARS

First, Third and Sixth Wards Send New Representatives to County Board

Appleton will send three new representatives to the county board following Tuesday's election. The new supervisors are Otto Thiessenhusen of the First ward, T. H. Ryan from the Third ward and Fred A. Sievert from the Sixth ward. Peter Rademacher incumbent supervisor from the Fifth ward, won by a narrow squeak over E. A. Killoren and P. H. Ryan and John Tracy of the Second and Fourth wards were unopposed.

Ryan made a runaway race of it in the Third ward, defeating Joseph Bayer by 157 votes. Bayer has served 17 years on the board and made a hard battle for reelection but was defeated in both precincts of his ward.

Sievert squeezed out a victory over L. C. Jens, incumbent and member of the highway commission, by a margin of 35 votes, polling 359 to the 324 cast for Jens. Each man won a precinct by a big majority, but Sievert had enough advantage to win the seat.

In the First ward Thiessenhusen and L. F. Bushey ran a merry race, but Thiessenhusen copped the place by virtue of his big majority in the first precinct. He dropped the second precinct to his opponent by 17 votes, but he piled up enough of a lead in the other polling place to win the election by 73 ballots.

Ryan and Tracy had everything their own ways in their wards, Ryan polling 281 votes and Tracy received 383. There was no sign of opposition to their reelection.

Killoren gave Rademacher a hard run in the Fifth ward. He carried the second precinct by three votes but lost the first by 22, finishing 19 behind his opponent. The total vote was 343 for Rademacher and 324 for Killoren.

Probably the hardest fight was waged in the Third ward, supporters of Ryan and Bayer making a thorough canvass of the voters. Bayer, after serving 17 years, was making a determined fight for reelection while Ryan's supporters were pledged to send a new representative to the board. Ryan also was reelected to the board of education.

Following is the vote:

First ward	Thiessenhusen	Bushey
First Precinct	229	139
Second precinct	111	128
Totals	340	267

Second ward	P. H. Ryan
First precinct	154

'BIG BILL' WINS

William Hale Thompson, who was elected mayor of Chicago Tuesday by a plurality of 83,000 votes. He defeated Mayor Dever and Dr. John Dill Robertson for the office, in the biggest vote ever cast in Chicago.

WARSHIPS IN CHINA FACING LACK OF COAL

Strike May Hamper Rescue Work — Chinese Troops Seize Soviet Agitators

Washington—(AP)—Fears of an interruption to shipping on the Yangtse river which would hamper activities of American and other gunboats engaged in evacuating foreigners to the China coast were communicated Wednesday to the navy department.

Rear Admiral Hough of the American Yangtse patrol force, reported that virtually all ships in the Yangtse area were coal burners and a shortage of fuel, caused by serious labor troubles, may require that the craft be sent to Shanghai.

The only alternative, it was said, would be the shipment of coal from Shanghai to the river patrol vessels which, in the opinion of navy department officials, would seriously embarrass those in charge of the Yangtse evacuation.

Conditions at Hankow were described by Admiral Hough as "very bad."

CAPTURE RUSS ARMS

Peking—(AP)— Troops of the army of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin the Manchurian war lord and armed police raided the soviet embassy Wednesday morning. Six Russians and 15 to 20 Chinese were taken to the police station and a machine gun, fifteen rifles and a quantity of ammunition were removed from the embassy.

Measures had been taken previously to guard all entrances to the building. More than 100 troops and police, acting on signed authorization of the diplomatic corps, rushed the embassy. One shot was heard, after which a Russian was dragged out fighting and kicking. He was bound and carried off in a motor car. The troops still occupied the building Wednesday afternoon. The Russians and Chinese arrested at the embassy were described as agitators.

Marshal Chang Tso-Lin has been described in dispatches to the London newspapers as a determined foe of Bolshevism. After the disorders at Nanking, Chang, expressing sorrow over the events, was reported by the Westminster Gazette of London, to have said that he believed the powers should direct their action against the Bolsheviks rather than against the Chinese.

Ten Years Ago Today U.S. Joined Allies In Conflict

Washington—(AP)—The decade that Americans enfolds the great war has gone trooping down the corridor of time. Ten years ago Wednesday the call to arms was shrilling in every town and hamlet under the Stars and Stripes.

"The war resolution passed the house at 3 o'clock this morning," say the yellowing records. "Already it has cleared the senate and the house roll call in the early hours of the new day showed 373 to 50 for war declaration.

There was cheering a little later when the totals were announced and speaker Champ Clark affixed his name to the resolution. By 3:30 in the morning the house had adjourned.

Just after noon Vice President "Tom" Marshall added his signature, and the resolution was on its way to President Wilson. Already the wires had carried orders to seize the German shipping in American harbors. The scene shifted to the White House.

"The war resolution was signed by the president at 1:11 o'clock," said another passage, sent humming over the wires.

"The president signed with a pen handed him by Mrs. Wilson, and which he will preserve. "The president also signed a proclamation formally declaring a state of war between the United States and Germany."

That let loose the mobilization orders for the army, navy, marine corps, coast guard, national guard and all reserves.

Already the recruiting offices were swarming with eager volunteers. The ten years since that day—years of battle, of victory, of restless and fermenting post-war differences—have brought to the grave all three of the men whose names are written on the war resolution—Wilson, Marshall and Clark. Only a bare handful remain to struggle with the fretful aftermath of war.

PLURALITY OF "BIG BILL" IS 83,000 VOTES

Dever and Victor Split Nearly Even Ward for Ward in Election

ALSO CONTROLS COUNCIL

Negro Wards 6 to 1 for Thompson — Contribute 59,215 to Plurality

Chicago—(AP)—William Hale Thompson, former cowboy, lassoed the mayor's chair in Chicago's biggest election Monday and prepared to ride into the city hall with a plurality of 83,000 votes in his saddlebags.

The son of a beautiful election day barely had sunk in the west, where Thompson once punched cattle, when his election was conceded. By dinner time it was all over but the shouting, and that continued until the sun had trotted around the world and appeared again in the east.

Nearly one million votes were cast. Thompson received 512,749. Mayor William E Dever, Democrat seeking a second term, got 429,668, and Dr. John Dill Robertson, banner carrier for an insurgent Republican faction, was a poor third with 51,209.

WARDS NEARLY EVEN

Viewed by wards, Thompson and Mayor Dever split nearly even, Dever carrying 23 and Thompson 27 wards. The Second, Third and Fourth wards, strongholds of the southside Negro vote wrought prodigiously for Thompson. Of his 83,072 plurality, these wards contributed 59,215, Thompson running better than 6 to 1 ahead of Mayor Dever there.

Besides the four year term as mayor, Thompson also apparently won control of the council, having the promise of support from 18 of 39 aldermen chosen at the Feb. 22 primaries to which were added probably 15 favorable aldermen Monday.

Despite dire forboding of bloodshed and disorder, and much viewing with alarm by law enforcement agencies, the election was one of the quietest in Chicago history. "As quiet as a Quaker funeral," Captain Stege of the detective bureau, called it.

FEW SIGNS OF DISORDER

Hoodlumism was almost entirely absent. Theft of one ballot box, dynamiting of two places used as Democratic headquarters, destruction by fire of Negro church under mysterious circumstances and the firing of a few shots were the only untoward incidents reported. No one was hurt.

Police attributed the peacefulness of the day to a fear instilled in gangland's heart by the shooting to death on the eve of the election of Vincent (Schemer) Drucci, beer baron of the north side. Many known gangsters; the police said, "spent election day in the country," rather than challenge the warning that the police would "fire first, talk afterward."

A jubilant "Big Bill" was pounded on the back, hand-shaken and loudly cheered in the hours following news that his election to serve a third term was received.

TO OUST SCHOOL HEAD

Thompson said one of his first acts would be the ousting of the superintendent of schools, William McAndrew, termed by Thompson "the stool pigeon of King George." One of Thompson's reiterated campaign arguments was that Chicago school textbooks contain British propaganda.

Mayor-elect Thompson served as chief executive for two terms, 1915-1923. He was not a candidate when Dever was elected.

Thompson ran strong on the north and west side, and carried the "gold coast" area, but Dever had a lead in the south side "silk stocking" territory of Hyde park, a Republican stronghold.

DEVER IS SATISFIED

Dever received the returns at home and when his defeat was certain said:

"I am perfectly satisfied, now that the people have made their choice. I made the best fight possible under the circumstances and I hope that all is well with this fine city."

Thompson's formal statement was a reiteration that he stands "today where I have always stood, where I stood when they called me Kaiser Bill; and I will stand there until I die, upholding the principles laid down by George Washington."

"Big Bill's" running mates for the office of clerk and treasurer were swept in with him. The city approved thirteen bond issues totaling $21,000,000 for civic improvements, and voted to annex two suburban communities.

TRIES TO STOP QUARREL; HE IS KILLED BY GUNMAN

Chicago—(AP)—Walter J. Clark, Jr., 25, mechanic, was shot to death early Wednesday when he attempted to intervene in a quarrel between two other men. Seing a man brandishing a revolver at another inside a parked auto ...ile, Clark ran forward to investigate. The man with the weapon, standing on the running board of the car, fired three shots, and Clark fell. The man then jumped into the car and fired a fourth shot as the machine sped away.

Gmeiner, Ryan, Eggert Elected To School Board

Seymour Gmeiner, Thomas H. Ryan and William Eggert were elected members of the board of education from a field of five candidates in Tuesday's election. Axel Fahlstrom seeking reelection, and John Trautman were the defeated candidates. Mr. Ryan and Mr. Eggert were members of the board seeking reelection and the only new member is Mr. Gmeiner.

The new board will be made up of W. H. Kreiss, Mrs. S. C. Shannon, John Behnke and Mr. Gmeiner of the First ward; Dr. C. E. Resnick and Mr. Eggert of the Second ward and Mr. Ryan of the Third ward.

Gmeiner ran about 320 votes ahead of the field, polling a total of 2,327 ballots. Ryan finished second with 2,006 and Eggert was a close third with 1,976. Fahlstrom finished a poor fourth with 1,443 and Trautman brought up the rear with 1,410.

Gmeiner showed great strength in every ward and in every precint, running particularly strong in the First, Second and Third wards. The third ward gave a majority to Mr. Ryan with Gmeiner close behind. Mr. Eggert ran ahead of the field in the Fifth and Sixth wards and was rather close behind in the Third. Fahlstrom carried but one ward, the

MAYOR CONTROLS COUNCIL

Racine—(AP)—William H. Armstrong was reelected mayor by a majority of 1,861, over John R. Jones, Jr., chairman of the county board. Armstrong men were returned to the council from six of the eight wards which voted on aldermen, and his control of the council is complete. Bonds for the construction of a south side senior high school to cost $840,000, were approved.

NO SPEECHES AT MANITOWOC

Manitowoc—(AP)—In a campaign in which no public speaking was done, John Schroeder defeated Martin Georgenson for reelection as mayor by a majority of 43 votes. Schroeder served two terms as mayor and was defeated by Georgenson six years ago. Three old members of the council were also defeated. Joseph Revolinsky, George MacFarlane and Charles Schied. Max Rabi, Jr., and Stanley Eckel were reelected to the school board. The township elections made a number of changes in the county board including the retirement of Patsy Cavanaugh, a stormy petrel of the board and anti-concrete road man.

WATSON FONDY'S MAYOR

Fond du Lac—(AP)—Carrying every precinct except one George W. Watson, 66, ex-postmaster, defeated Albert Huelsman, realty operator, for mayor in Tuesday's election by a vote of 4,308 to 2,496. The new executive assumes office April 19, succeeding R. D. Haentze, who has served six years and who was not a candidate for reelection. The city rejected the salary increase for state legislators, 1,545 to 1,145, and approved the forestry amendment tax 1,225 to 1,020.

NO BOOST FOR POLICE

Milwaukee—(AP)—Milwaukee voters Monday refused to grant the police and firemen of the city a $30 a month salary increase, elected Francis J. Jennings, non-partisan to the civil court bench, and kept the political complexion of the school board intact through refusing to elect the Socialist slate.

In a close race, Jennings defeated Judge William F. Quick, Socialist appointee of Governor Blaine as the successor to Judge Joseph Padway who resigned last fall to take a trip around the world. The vote was: Jennings 39,032; Quick 37,717.

MAYOR IS REELECTED

La Crosse — (AP) — J. J. Verchota Tuesday was reelected mayor in one of the closest municipal elections on record here, defeating William Torrance by the narrow margin of 151 votes. Verchota, a labor candidate, was elected for his third term. Torrance had occupied the mayoralty office for two terms, between the years of 1903 and 1907.

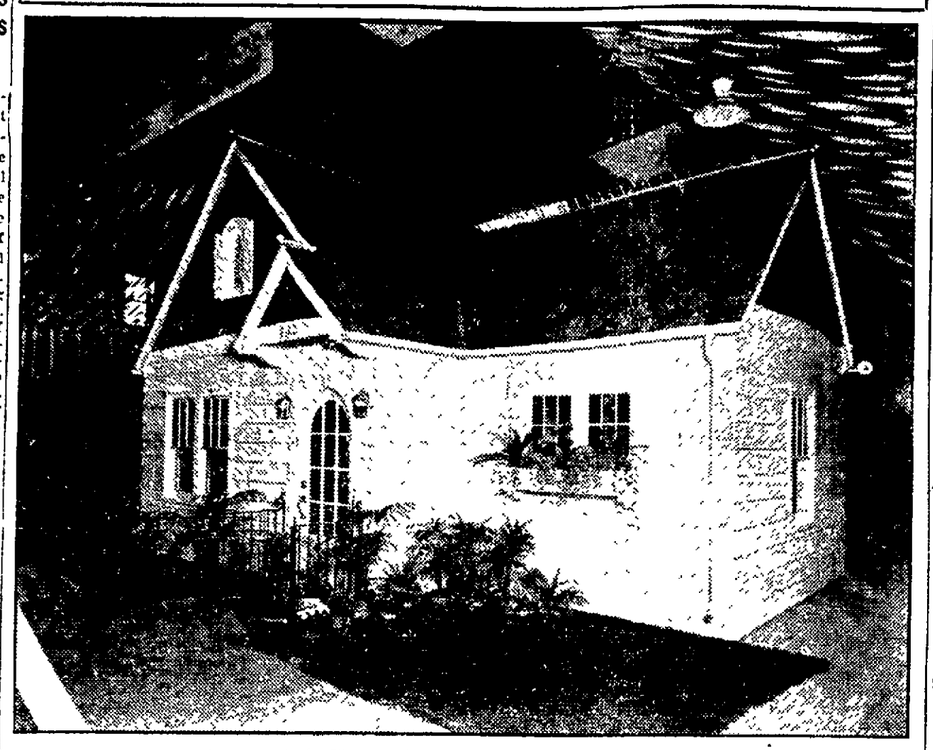

FREMONT IN THROES OF HOT ELECTION

Two Candidates Win Offices by Single Vote as Cross Burns on Main Street

Fremont—A burning cross on Main-st, near the store of George Dobbins at about 9:15 Tuesday evening, two issues up for special election, and the consequent record vote gave unusual interest to the election in the village of Fremont. The proposal to bond the village for $6,000 for the purpose of building a new village hall was voted down, 100 to 57, but the voters declared themselves in favor of having the village board meet once a month. The vote was 91 to 45. Members of the board are to receive $1 per meeting; but the total amount is not to exceed $84 a year. The president is to receive the same pay as the trustees. The referendum on increased pay for state legislators was opposed, 64 to 24, and the voters rejected the proposed amendment on forestation by a vote of 18 to 34.

William Peters was elected village president by a single vote, polling 77 ballots, against 76 for E. A. Sader. George Dobbins was elected county supervisor over Verne H. Swenson, 87 to 68. Votes for village trustees were: Walter Arndt, 135; Ben Van Rehbein, 96; E. C. Sherburne, 91; Carl Abraham, 70; and Leonard Kloehn, 31. The first three were elected. John Gigl was elected clerk, polling 86 votes, against 72 for Herbert Rehbein. Ben S. Pitt, independent candidate, won the office of treasurer by a single vote over Carl Kock, 77 to 76. Edwin Teska was unopposed for constable. Another independent candidate, R. F. Schliebe, was elected justice of the peace. He polled 87 votes, against 68 for Paul R. Kohls. Ray Looker was elected assessor over Edwin Zuehlke, 139 to 31. C. H. Bacher was given 84 votes for county superintendent of schools, while the incumbent, O. K. Evenson, received 30 votes.

Materials for the model home at the Pure Food and Better Homes show in the armory starting today were collected from all parts of the United States and from Canada, according to Elmer Root of the Standard Manufacturing company, which built the house.

The frame lumber is grade marked No. 1 Wisconsin Hemlock, the siding is of red cedar from the state of Washington the shingles are from British Columbia, Canada, the outside trimming from Long Bell, California, and inside finish came from Arkansas.

Construction started at 8 o'clock Monday morning and the house was completed early Tuesday morning to allow the interior decorators to get in.

The house is 36 feet wide, 18 feet deep and 16 feet high. The living room is 16 by 12 feet; one bed room, 10 by 12 feet; kitchen, 10 by 12 feet, bath room, 5½ by 7½ feet; dining nook, 5½ by 7½ feet.

The model home is completely wired. Flower boxes have been built under the windows and are filled with real flowers by the Riverside Greenhouse. Shrubbery and decorative plants around the outside of the home also are furnished by the local flower company.

Carpenter contractors assisted in building the house are George Ashman, Beusch and Buchholtz, Herman Beske, Hoeppner and Sons, Charles Hartsworm, William Flotow and Herman Schultz.

The interior is finished with a new type of wall board with different color effects. The bath room is finished in light green which has the effect of spray on the ocean. The kitchen is painted gray and all furnishings match this color scheme. The painting was done by L. A. Stammer and Sons.

The house is a model not only from the standpoint of artistic construction and finishing, with the newest ideas in home beautiful appliances, but the interior is completely furnished to suit the taste of even the most exacting critic.

The Brettschneider Furniture company is furnishing the house with bed room set, living room set, dining nook set, kitchen fittings, rugs and draperies. The electrical appliances, including a Kelvinator refrigerator, a modern Hot Point electric range and all other electrical appliances are being furnished by the Wisconsin Traction, Light Heat and Power company.

do so. In any event, these same leaders will be asked not to pledge themselves to any other candidate until the Coolidge policy is proclaimed.

As for the Democrats, they are in almost the same bewildered state of mind as their opponents. The two outstanding figures are still Governor Smith and former Secretary McAdoo. There are indications that the latter is really reluctant to get into the political arena again and would sincerely prefer to stay out, yet the Democrats in the last four years have not developed any other champion from the dry side. In order to block the nomination of Governor Smith, a dry will have to be brought forward. Meanwhile, the Democratic leaders, most of whom are wet in the east and middle west, are counting upon a lukewarm feeling on the part of the southern leaders toward the necessity of nominating a dry. The record that Al Smith has made in New York state is being cited by the Smith workers as sufficient reason for his nomination above all other questions. This leaves the religious issue, of course, as very influential but here again the managers of the Al Smith campaign are depending on another argument to win the southern Democrats to their standard. It is that a Democratic victory in the nation is likely if Al Smith is nominated.

The southern Democrats are, of course, eager to win because it means patronage for their states as well as important committee chairmanships when a Democratic nominee is strong enough to carry into office with him a Democratic congress. If the friends of Al Smith can dangle before the eyes of the southern leaders the prospect of a victory, they will make headway in some instances though it is a foregone conclusion even at this early date that Al Smith is not likely to have at the next convention a majority of the southern states. The spectacle may be presented of a Democratic nominee being chosen through combinations from other states—though this is only another way of saying that unless the two thirds rule is abolished the chances of another deadlock at the next Democratic convention with a compromise candidate in the distance are bright.

COW SWALLOWS TACK AND RENDERING PLANT GETS IT

A common tack caused a valuable cow owned by Arthur Lecker of the Town of Grand Chute last week. The tack probably had been swallowed by the animal with his food, and it worked up through the stomach to the heart, penetrating that organ.

When the animal was butchered nails and pieces of wire were found in its stomach.

COLLEGES STILL ASLEEP, HELBLE TELLS TEACHERS

Junior Schools Working Feverishly; High Schools Slowly Stirring

"Elementary and junior high schools are feverishly at work: the senior high school is slowly stirring; college is still asleep," H. H. Helble, principal of Appleton high school said at a professional faculty meeting Monday afternoon at the school on the topic Contemporaneous, Progressive Developments, Movements, and Tendencies in the Senior High School Field.

"Education is life; it must be life-like, and must give life experience, but contrast it with the preparation for life, the principal said. "Life means growing, changing, dynamic, never static or standing still. Contrast this with 'The original business of the school was to hand down to youth their elders' ways of behaving.'"

In re-organizing the curriculum, local surveys have been taken and principles have been considered such as philosophy of education, its aims, goals objectives and purposes. This work has been carried farthest in the elementary and junior high schools, and has been started in the senior high school.

Testing and measurement processes have been studied and applied to intelligence, achievement, aptitudes and morality. Their results have shown important changes in the elementary curriculum in oral reading, social arithmetic, handwriting and spelling; individual pupil adjustment and pupil accounting improvement; a scientific educational and vocational guidance; a lowered waste percentage; and clarified minimum essentials.

Respect for the individual's personality is being found in the vocation educational guidance promoted by educators, Mr. Helble said. The basis for vocational failure in many cases was too much waste, drop-outs from school, blind-alley preparation, shifting curricular elections and pupil failures. The economic cost of this waste resulted in increased interest and study of the problem.

The method of solving the guidance problem was to offer wider vocational electives; appoint deans of boys and deans of girls, and vocational counsellors; hold guidance conferences; plan occupational courses, exploratory courses, part-time education, and continuation schools; give advice and talks on curricula and colleges, have complete pupil accounting through the twelfth grade; and other means, according to the plans of the principal.

The philosophy of extra-curricular activities is an important phase of modern developments in the high school, he said. The basis of their need, it was cited is: Interest determines effort, interest solves moral, discipline problems, and purposeful activity is life. The results of a survey made by a faculty committee at Appleton high school, has been to try to curricularize the extra-curricular; to train directors for the work; to train character through the activities; and to solve discipline and interest problems.

Stereotyped methods of instruction as the old question and answer and teacher-talk systems were a hindrance to the gerat variations in abilities, rates of progress, and achievements, it was said. To solve these difficulties several methods have been devised: homogeneous groupings, individuals promotions, coaching and study teachers, directed study, problem, project, laboratory, socialized, parliamentary unit, contract, etc., methods of instruction.

Democratization of administration will be made possible through cooperative curriculum building, salary campaigns, faculty participation in policies, and delegation of duties and authority to teachers, Mr. Helble said. Curriculum building through the united efforts of teachers and principals has been found successful in the Appleton junior high schools, he cited.

The home and church have lost their hold and have left the school to stand alone in character, conduct and manner instruction, the principal said. "Training the intellect, but not the heart, the will, the emotions, is bad business." Formal rather than incidental instruction in ideals, attitudes and habits have been established in schools through extra-curricular activities, social studies, formal Bible reading without comment, and week-day schools of religious education.

There has been a tendency towards more rigid professionalizing of teaching because of an over-supply of poorly trained high school teachers, Mr. Helble said. Teaching today involves more than knowing subject matter. It demands a knowledge of philosophy of education, of methods of teaching boys and girls, of social conditions, of adaptability to a changing world of occupations. Methods of professionalizing teaching more rigidly have been to pass regulations against employing teachers unless they have bachelor's degrees following four year courses in schools of higher education, to lower the entrance pay and raise the retention pay, to organize pension and retirement systems, to establish helpful supervision, etc.

ACCIDENT VICTIM GETS SETTLEMENT

Melvin Schneider Receives $8,000 for Injuries in Bus Crash

Melvin Schneider, 903 E. North-st, received a settlement of $8,000 from the Royal Transit Co. and the New Amsterdam Casualty Co. Thursday when his damage suit against the companies, resulting from a bus accident near Baraboo last summer, was settled through Judge A. C. Hoppman, municipal judge of Dane-co, out of court. The local man, an instructor of violin at the Jebe School of Music, was severely injured with several summer school students at the University of Wisconsin when the bus in which they were riding plunged into the Baraboo river while they were on an outing to the Dells. It was thought for some time that he would not live. He still bears scars of the accident.

Mr. Schneider's settlement was the largest received by those injured. The case had been called in court but an agreement was reached before it went to the jury. Five women passengers, all summer school students were granted damages amounting to $23,125. Miss Florence Hougan received $4,162.50; Caroline Gallagher, $4,162.50; Mary Scherger, $6,590.63; Rose Lincoln, $6,544.37; Bernice Bartlett, $1,665.

ROAD COMMISSION CUTS POWERS OF CHIEF ENGINEER

Radical Changes Are Made in Administration of Highway Body

Madison—(AP)—Radical changes in the administration of the state highway commission which was recently investigated by a legislative committee, are made in resolutions adopted by the commission.

The wide authority given J. T. Donaghey, former chief engineer of the department under resolution in July 1924, was revoked. H. J. Kuelling the new chief engineer, does not have the powers because, according to the resolution "it has been demonstrated that such delegation of power may result in action not above criticism and for which the commission will be held responsible and therefore be charged with "loss of touch with the work and processes of the department.'".

The powers conferred on the former engineer, and taken away by the late resolution were:

Supervision of plans for the State's highway construction employment and discharge of practically all the employes of the commission, act for the commission in the approval of relocation of county and state trunk highways, approve franchises for the use of the trunk highways, issue orders regulating the conduct of road and bridge construction and maintentance and delegate the work.

The resolution states that the commission hereafter will "administer the powers and duties of the department as prescribed by law without the delegation of administrative authority."

Further changes in the policy of the commission were carried out by abolition of the office of engineer-secretary and the office of design engineer, the latter being a $5,000 per year position.

The resolution states that the duties of the two abolished offices shall be performed by the "deputy state highway engineer," a new office, to which C. R. Weymouth, holder of the old office of engineer-secretary is appointed. These changes were effective April 1.

The commission further resolves, "that the state highway engineer is hereby directed to make a complete survey of the various departments of the commission and report his findings to the commission at the earliest possible convenience, said survey to include any suggestions or recommendations he may deem necessary to promote greater efficiency."

A large seven-passenger sedan belonging to the commission and previously used by the chief engineer is taken from that officers possession for commission's use, and a definite date of meetings of the commission, Tuesday of each week, and is set, in other resolutions.

The commission further ordered that the state highway engineer and Mr. E. F. Bean, state geologist, "Make a careful study and investigation of the materials department as now constituted and report to the commission such remedies as, in their judgement will place this particular department in position to function for the best interest of the state."

Coeds Earn Schooling By Pushing Baby Buggies

Madison —(AP)—Pushing baby buggies for a quarter an hour with an additional 15 cents for "reading out loud" to children is one way University of Wisconsin coeds have of working their way through school.

Care of children is popular because the work usually calls for afternoon or evening employment when the coed is free from classes. Demuneration ranges from 25 cents to 45 cents an hour, depending upon the nature of the work.

Other means of securing extra cash include serving in tea rooms, cafeterias and sorority houses. Sewing, believed by many to be a lost art among modern college girls, also provides a source of extra income for a few coeds.

Clerical work, typewriting, stenography and secretarial duties are the most popular types of employment, however, and the monetary return far exceeds the household duty revenue.

Positions for the girls may be secured through the university's employment bureau where personal interviews are conducted and the qualifications of the applicant carefully considered. While the majority of the working coeds are only paying part of their expenses through outside work, a few manage to pay all expenses by working spare time.

Nearly four hundred women are registered in the employment bureau at the present time and an accurate record of their work is kept by those in charge.

Alice V. King, superintendent of the employment office, advises freshmen girls to have at least $275 for first semester expenses so that they may have time to get started in their studies and also to find suitable work.

With approximately one-half of the freshman class, including both men and women, paying part or all of their expenses through outside work, the bureau is forced to maintain a year-around staff caring for the needs of the applicants. When appearing for work, the applicants are given a card listing the various types of employment and after designating their choice, available employers are considered.

While the majority of the apportunities for outside work are available to male help, seventy-one possible occupations are listed with a portion of them open to coeds.

COUNCIL "ELECTS" REMMEL MAYOR TO SUCCEED HIMSELF

Aldermen Go Through Formality to Make Year's Work Legal

Menasha—N. G. Remmel was reappointed mayor at the meeting of the common council Tuesday evening to fill his unexpired term. The informal ballot was W. E. Held 1, Mayor N. G. Remmel 7. The first formal ballot gave W. E. Held 2 and Mayor Remmel 6. Alderman Brezinski, president of the council then announced the election of Mr. Remmel, who was immediately sent for to be sworn in. These proceedings were taken to make certain the legality of the steps taken by the mayor both as to his resignation and reinstatement.

Immediately upon the council being called to order a suspension of the rules was taken. City Attorney Fitzgibbon announced that the next step was the election of a mayor. He said some time ago the mayor resigned, but that the resignation read to take effect on or before the second Tuesday in April. The city attorney claimed there was no resignation until the expiration of that time. Upon the advice of his attorneys the mayor filed a resignation to become effective at once. The opinion of his attorneys was to the effect that there was nothing to prevent him from succeeding himself. Alderman Baldwin called for the reading of the opinion.

After being sworn in Mayor Remmel made a few remarks to the effect that he resigned on March 15 in good faith after serving the city for more than 20 years as alderman and mayor. He said he appreciated the honor that had been shown him.

"A Sure Income is Better Than Sudden Riches"

"If I leave my family all my insurance and property outright," said a business man, "it would seem to them like sudden riches. They might conserve it, but they might not.

"I could leave this to chance, but I know my wife would prefer a sure income to uncertainty and money responsibility."

"So, in my will, I have specified that a trust company shall hold what I leave in trust for my family's benefit, paying them a fixed rate of income. In stated emergencies, however, extra amounts may be paid out. I am thus accomplishing flexibility with certainty."

UPPER WOLF RIVER RECEDING AT RATE OF 1 INCH DAILY

Danger of Flood Is Gone, According to Alan H. Tripp, Oshkosh

The waters in the upper Wolf river and also in the Fox river are receding at the rate of a half to 1 inch per day for the past few days and the peak of the so-called flood conditions has passed and high water in large threatens the Fox River valley, according to Alan H. Tripp of Oshkosh, president of the Association for the Relief of High Water, E. F. Everett, United States engineer, in charge of the Appleton office confirms Mr. Tripp's statements. He said the water is receding rapidly and the danger of high water is almost gone.

The annual spring break up has passed and the resulting flood conditions were not serious as the water did not even reach the peak of other years.

The reading at Gill's Landing on the Wolf river on March 22 was six feet five inches, the highest registered this spring. Land from Poygan to Shiocton is flooded when the river reaches a level of six feet six inches on the gauge at Gill's landing.

A seven-foot level is considered as "flood stage".

The gates in the dams at Neenah, Menasha and Appleton were open for several weeks and the water situation has been handled very satisfactorily this year, according to Mr. Tripp.

LIBRARY RENTALS AMOUNT TO $800

Adults Are More Negligent Than Children, According to Librarian

Nearly $800 was collected through fines and rentals on books at Appleton public library last year, $633.84 of which was taken in on overdue books, lost volumes, etc. Rentals on new books for which 1 cent a day is charged, amounted to $152.05.

Adults are more negligent than children in returning books, according to Miss Florence C. Day, librarian. They also object more to fines that are levied. Children accept without question when they are charged for keeping books past due, but adults are inclined to "kick."

Even though the fines are an added source of income to the library they are not desired, as they keep the books out of circulation, the librarian said. When a 50 cent or 75 cent fine is paid by a patron the librarians are not pleased, because the books have been out of circulation and unavailable for other readers for so long a time.

Money collected through fines and rentals is not used directly for the purchase of new books or other purposes It is turned over to the city treasurer and applied to the general fund.

TONG WAR THREAT HERE DISCOUNTED

No Trouble Among Appleton's Chinamen Is Anticipated by Police

Fear that the tong war which recently reappeared in several of the larger cities of the country might involve Appleton's Chinese population apparently was unfounded, according to police.

Although officers were instructed during the outbreak to watch for any strange Chinamen, and to beware of any disturbances which might threaten here, nothing to arouse the suspicions of the department was uncarthed.

One young Chinaman, reported to be a student at Lawrence college, was picked up about a week ago and questioned by police, but was released after he had told his story. A revolver was found on him.

He was found on the Midway, standing across the street from a laundry. The Chinaman who operates the laundry is his uncle, he told police, and both were afraid that the uncle might be a victim of Chicago Chinamen. The youth consequently had placed himself on guard near his relative's place of business.

He indicated that a Chinaman here had received word from Chicago to be on the watch, as tong members were apt to visit Appleton at any time.

In view of the fact that the outbreak appears to be settled, at least temporarily, there is little fear here that any trouble will arise.

A Big Task

To fuel and lubricate the millions of motor vehicles of the Middle West is the big task undertaken by this company.

An increase in two years of more than a million motor vehicles indicates that this is a task of rapidly growing proportions, a solution of which requires foresight and adjustability.

The total number of cars and trucks registered in the ten states of the Middle West, served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), was 5,508,570 in 1924 and 6,729,749 in 1926.

This means that within two years the number of motor vehicles in the Middle West increased by 1,221,179.

Finding crude petroleum and converting it into fuel and lubricants for more than six and one-half million motor vehicles is only a part of the work of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) not only produces petroleum products of superior quality, but it distributes them to every corner of the territory it serves.

On all the highways that weave an intricate pattern over the ten great Middle Western States, the service stations of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are found supplying fuel and oil to the cars and trucks that pass.

Nor does the service of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stop with its own service stations.

Thousands of garages, privately owned filling stations and curb pumps selling Standard Oil Company (Indiana) products dot the landscape of the Middle West. The company's own trucks and tank wagons carry its gasoline, lubricating oil and kerosene to the motorist and to the farmer —even to the tractor in the field when required.

Employees of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are anxious to be helpful. They are enthusiastic about their work. They do every job as if it were the only one they had to do. They take a personal pride in maintaining the reputation of the company of which they are a part.

29,573 men and women working with this spirit perform a task which is of fundamental importance in the lives of thirty million people in the Middle West.

THE STRUGGLE IN CHINA

A great struggle is going on in China for control of the nationalist movement by the communists. General Chiang Kai-shek, who has always been known as a conservative liberal and opposed to the incorporation of bolshevism into the Chinese political system, is fighting the extreme committee at Hankow. The fate of China for a long period is bound up in the outcome of this struggle for supremacy between communism and enlightened liberalism. There is a parallel between the situation in Russia at the time of the overthrow of the czarist regime and that of China today. In Russia the liberals attempted to set up a revolutionary government founded on democratic principles. Communism with its attacks upon religion, capitalism and social individualism, carried the unintelligent and unthinking, but impressionable, Russian from the extremes of a tyrannical despotism, which he had long suffered and knew only too well, to the extremes of the Third international. He was meat for doctrinaires and their propaganda. He fell for it and it has laid quite as deadily a fetter upon him as absolutism ever did. His personal freedom and identity are as completely annihilated now as then.

The Russian experiment will subsist only so long as it is able to spread itself beyond the confines of Russia. It has tried Germany, Great Britain, France, Italy and in fact all of the war-distraught nations of Europe and our own United States, without so much as making a dent. Then came China. The revolution there was an exceptional opportunity. The Chinese, while inherently conservative and individualistic in their social and political conceptions, were nevertheless ignorant like the Russians, and susceptible to propaganda. The soviet wormed his way into the goodwill of the nationalist movement and the Kuomintang, or People's party, by carrying to the revolutionists at the psychological hour its knowledge and experience in military strategy. It brought the disorganized forces of the Cantonese into a relatively well-trained and efficient army, lacking only the means with which to buy all of the ammunition and equipment needed. But the Cantonese army is Russian drilled, Russian organized, Russian directed.

Always preceding the army was the propagandist, and it is not extravagant to say that propaganda has won more battles for the Cantonese than guns. The northern forces melted away under its influence, so that resistance has been uniformly weak. The war lords have been routed, and China today is as good as conquered by the great proletarian uprising. The moment is therefore opportune for communism to cash in on its friendly intervention in support of the revolutionists. That was its whole aim and purpose, and it is prepared to risk a bold stroke for victory. It is too soon to know and the situation is too uncertain to predict what the result will be.

The closest social students of China all sympathize with the nationalist cause, believing it to offer the first real prospect of rescuing China from the foreign yoke, and of setting up a responsible and unified republic. They have been slow to suspect the Russian menace. Political observers, however, have seen it from the first. If it prevails, it will involve conflict between China and foreign powers of the utmost gravity. It will also involve the United States in difficulties that are analogous, if not precisely the same, as those it has encountered in Russia. We have our nationals to protect and our commercial interests to serve no matter what happens. We must not let a false sentimentalism, ever disposed to construe communism as liberalism, to stand in the way of discharging our full duties in the Orient, and of demanding of whatever new China may arise a like discharge of international obligations.

THE WAR ANNIVERSARY

Today is the tenth anniversary of America's entrance into the World war. Time has passed swiftly since that momentous occasion, in which this country was forced by events beyond its control to cast its lot with the aggregation of nations fighting a death struggle with the German military power. The elapse of only a decade has wiped out most of the scars and bitterness of the great conflict. Europe has made remarkable progress toward a reconciliation, when we consider the colossal scale of the strife and the unreasoning it inspired. It is going through a period of reconstruction and approachment not unlike that which followed the Civil war in the United States. The years heal all wounds. Few at the time of the World war was raging believed the belligerents would so soon be fraternizing in commercial relationships and in an intelligent endeavor to let by-gones be by-gones and remove the possibilities of another such tragedy.

There are some who discount the apparent headway that is being made, but a hopeful and encouraging humanity is optimistic Every passing year makes it easier to consider ways and means to peace, and act for its preservation. That the desire for peace will ultimately prevail there is reason to expect, although wars here and there will raise doubts and fears. We have a long way yet to travel before the goal is reached, but reached it must be in the end. The United States of all nations is in a position to hasten the day of universal peace, by economic and political pressure where it is feasible, but more conspicuously by moral leadership. That must ever be its supreme international mission. If it does not measure up to that high duty it must inevitably fail in its obligations to itself. No nation can live as a law unto itself in this age or in the future. It must collaborate with the world and serve it, that the world may be a safe and fit place in which to live.

ATHLETICS AND SAVAGERY

We civilized Americans are justly proud of our skill in athletics. We make heroes out of our leading athletes, and consider the fact that America holds nearly all of the world's athletic records proof that our civilization is of the highest type.

Yet now and again our Nordic supremacy is threatened. Jim Thorpe, a red Indian, was the greatest football player of them all, Battling Siki, fresh from the African jungles, would have been unbeatable if properly drilled: and now a group of wild Mexican Indians have just finished a foot race that puts our marathons to shame. Eigthy-five miles across rough country! And the red runners were hardly even winded.

Athletics are fine things. But we might as well admit that civilization breeds no better athletes than savagery.

OLD MASTERS

The sun, the moon, the stars, the seas, the hills and the plains—
Are not these, O Soul, the Vision of Him who reigns?

Is not the Vision He? though He be not that which He seems?
Dreams are true while they last, and do we not live in dreams?

Earth, these solid stars, this weight of body and limb,
Are they not sign and symbol of the division from Him?

Dark is the world to thee; thyself art the reason why;
For is He not all but thou, that has power to feel "I am I"?

Glory about thee, without thee; and thou fulfillest thy doom,
Making Him broken gleams, and a stifled splendor and gloom.

Speak to Him, thou, for He hears, and Spirit with Spirit can meet—
Closer is He than breathing, and nearer than hands or feet.

—Alfred Tennyson: From "The Higher Pantheism."

TRADITION HAS IT

America is a pauper in traditions, says a London professor. But, professor, how about the miners' spring strike?. . . Hasn't the word reached London yet about Harry Lauder's farewell tours through the United States? . . . Doesn't he know about Secretary Kellogg's denials that he intends to offer his resignation?. . . We may be poverty-stricken in tradition, but this is the only country in the world where you can get three alienists to declare you sane and three who'll find you crazy. . . Not to mention the little girl, who upon taking her first lesson in golf asked her father: "Dad if I miss the ball MUST I swear?"

There's enough lime in a man's body to whitewash a chicken fence, says a Chicago surgeon. We are awaiting the headline: SLAYS MATE AS FENCE GETS MOLDY.

The scientific age shall not have reached its summit until someone invents an automatic windshield wiper for horn-rimmed glasses.

All that the United States army needs to become world champions at presenting arms is for one more queen to come to this country.

FALLACIES WE RELUCT TO RELINQUISH 2—NOURISHING BUT NOT FATTENING

A fallacy is a deceptive or false appearance or an illusion. An illusion is a false appearance or belief which one readily recognizes as a mistake when the error is pointed out. A delusion is a false belief or an apparition which the victim retains in spite of all reasonable reassurances that he is mistaken. Any of us may have an illusion. Only the insane have delusions.—Our fallacies are erratic observations or beliefs which we harbor mainly because we have never taken the time or trouble to investigate their merits or reason them out. I am concerned with health fallacies, and in these discussions I hope to help readers out of certain fallacies which indirectly obstruct the ways of health. We omit from this series the great delusion. A visitor to an asylum watched one of the nuts making queer faces and salaaming before an apparition. "What do you see there?" he asked. "Just the same as you see," replied the inmate. "Well, why are you here, then?" "Well, why are you here?" retorted the patient. "I'm here just out of curiosity," said the visitor. "And I'm here out of animosity," said the paranoiac. "How's that? Are you not out of your mind?" "Certainly not. My mind i all right. That's just the reason why I am here. All the rest of the world is crazy, and they couldn't stand having me around reminding them of it, so they put me in here."

Nearly every day a few readers inquire for lists of foods which are nourishing and strenghthening yet not fattening.

Any such adventure in diet should be based on fundamental physiological facts. The first thing to consider in the selection of foods which nourish or strengthen the body but do not produce deposits of fat, is the source of energy or strength and the source of body fat.

Briefly, the food material or fuel which yields energy is chiefly carbohydrates—starchy foods and sugars or sweets. The food material which furnishes heat or warmth is fat. The remaining food stuff—nitrogenous food, protein, albuminous food—provides the material which the body need for repair of the constant wear and tear.

Any excess of any of these three kinds of food material over and above the quota needed and used by the individual may be deposited in the tissues in the form of fat, which thus becomes a reserve store which the individual may draw upon in time of famine, like the camel's hump and the pygmy's girdle.

Formerly nitrogenous material, protein, particularly lean beef, was very popular as an "energy" food, at least among uneducated "trainers" of athletes. Today sugar, candy, sweet chocolate, raisins and other forms of sugar or carbohydrate are recognized as the energy food. Marathon runners, mountain climbers, long distance swimmers, all use sugar to sustain them through a prolonged test of endurance.

Body fat may be formed from protien material, according to Graham Lusk, one of the foremost nutrition authorities.

Most of the fat folk's burden is derived from the excess of carbohydrate food they habitually eat. Bread, cake, sweets, potatoes, breakfast cereals, sugars, syrups, puddings, pastry—seems as though most everything good to eat will produce fat of one eats enough of it.

No oil or fat taken in food or medicine is absorbed and deposited in the body tissues in its original form. All fats are decomposed in digestion, into glycerin and fatty acids, so absorbed, and from these decomposition products the body cells reconstruct such fat as the body requires, and in the form the body needs.

LIBRARY ADVENTURES

WAITING FOR THEIR CUE

On the stage a character stands in the wings and waits for his cue. The persons already before the footlights do something or say something that is his signal for appearing on the stage and playing his part — all creafully prearranged and rehearsed, and the more carefully it has been prepared for the more "natural" and spontaneous it is likely to seem. It is perfect from a theatrical point of view only when the audience forgets completely that the people across the footlights are playing a part, when they get the illusion that what they are seeing is a slice out of real life.

In a novel or a short story there is exactly the same device of characters waiting for their cue. Instead of standing in the wings of a theatre they stand waiting in the wings of the author's mind and they enter the story when their turn comes. And whether or not they do this skilfully not too late and not too soon, often determines the success or failure of the book as a work of art.

Take so well known a story as "The Scarlet Letter." Without question a great work of art but it has always seemed to me that in the matter of having his characters take their cues skillfully and make entrances into the story that seem inevitable Hawthorne was no better writer than scores of others whose books do not live six weeks.

I was reminded of that the other night when I saw the newest screen version of "The Scarlet Letter." It is interesting to compare the entrance of the same character in the book and in the movie. In the novel Roger Chillingsworth comes into the story at a tense moment. Hester, his wife, is standing on the scaffold in the public square, the scarlet letter on her breast in full view of the jeering populace for the first time. Just at that exact moment Roger, after having been held captive by the Indians for seven years, edges through the fringe of the crowd and looks upon his wife's shame.

The chances are perhaps not more than one in a million that in real life it would have happened like that. Roger would not very likely have come back exactly at a moment of crisis. He would have had 364 chances out of the 365 of that year to return on a dull day when everybody was at home doing his accustomed prosaic work, and many a novelist would not have felt justified in having him return at the critical moment. In handling this particular entrance Hawthorne is exactly like the writer of a melodrama who fixes things so that the hero just happens to be walking on the railroad track across which the heroine has been tied by desperadoes and has just barely enough time to cut the rope before the train roars over the spot.

But in the movie version the entrance of Roger Chillingsworth is still more theatrical and hence still inevitable. On the screen Roger does not appear until Hester's child is about four or five years old. She has fallen desperately ill and seems about to die. The mother in despair rushes to the governor's house where Roger just a moment before happens to have arrived after seven years of imprisonment among the Indians. It is Hawthorne's moment of crisis ten times intensified. Roger is a doctor and he goes with the distracted mother, saves the child's life inside of 10 minutes (in real life, as anybody knows who has been through a clinic, it would never be so easy), and announces to his wife that he will henceforth devote his life to revenge.

Again, in real life, there would not have been one chance in ten million that Roger would have returned at the exact moment when his wife's illegitimate child was lying at the point of death. He might have entered the story at any one of the billions of moments in the period of seven long years. The scenario writer chose the moment of greatest crisis. On me at least it has the same effect as if a prompter in a theatre should shout, "Your turn to come on!" in the hearing of the audience when it was time for a new character to make an entrance.

QUEER QUIRKS OF NATURE

THE AMERICAN CHAMELEONS

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.

Let us play for a minute that we are the original possessors of the seven-league boots, and with a few hops have dropped in the midst of a blossoming orange grove. There is a weather-beaten house with a pantry window, over whose screen trails a vine. There is a splash of water at the sink inside.

Two fairly-like little creatures raise inquisitieve little heads and bright eyes peer from the foliage. They are only about five inches long, these tame and friendly litle midgets, whose pictures are here shown.

They glide about, occasionally darting out incredibly long tongues to snap up any luckless gnat within tongue's reach. An insect so small as to be practically invisible to us is an ample meal for these fairy-like midgets.

We must handle them carefully, as their tails, which constitute a goodly portion of them, are so brittle that they readily part company with the owner and proprietor.

Scientists now agree that the color variation in these lizards is entirely due to the stimuli of fear, excitement, exhaustion and other such causes.

Through inexpressibly small apertures our two pets would glide into the house and chase each other up and down through the tangled maze of the flowered wall paper, as though playing some merry game.

Sometimes the larger of the two would raise his head and pridefully exhibit a fan-shaped projection, something like an "adam's apple," which we now know to be the distinctive ornamentation of the gentleman of the species and which he considers adds to his graces in the bright eyes of the little lady whom he is trying to beguile.

This so-called American chameleon (chameleon carolinensis) is smaller and more active than the old world chameleon and really bolongs to a distinct branch of the lizard family, the iguanidae.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York— Most of Manhattan's historic spots are hemmed about by those newcomers from an old world who have drifted into the older sections of the city and, only through their children, come to learn of the traditions of the neighborhood in which they live.

Thus, down in the vicinity of the Battery with its Bowling Green, Fraunce's Tavern and other landmarks of revolutionary times, the colonies of the Turk, the Armenian and the Greek cluster close.

• • •

The newest of Manhattan's museums, just opened to the public is the old Gracie mansion, where Washington Irving retired to write that he might breathe the mists from the East River and gain inspiration from atmospheric surroundings.

It is a specious mansion biult upon to leveled remains of an old fort at the foot of Eighty-eighth street. To reach it one passes ancient brownstones long since turned into tenements where the dark hair and flashing eyes of the Hungarian are seen at every turn. In the basements are Bavarian and Hungarian coffee houses and cafes and the flavor of the old world is everywhere, except in the architecture.

Fruit and vegetable stands, vivid with color, just out upon the side walk; windows are cluttered with the faces of children and women; dark, brooding faces that follow you until the street plunges suddenly into the river and the light of Welfare Island beckons.

• • •

The Gracie mansion has been preserved intact, an unspoiled slice of another century. Here dwelt one Archibald Gracie, merchant prince of his time, whose flag was to be found flying in every sea. Outside the preservation of the house itself, the one suggestion of a museum is to be found in a theatrical collection.

As the street slips off into the river there are indications of another change. From an aristocracy the street grew old and threadbare, gradually becoming a foreign quarter and a belt of tenements. Now there are signs of a social return. This happened in Sutton Place, where a single block has become ultra-exclusive, made into homes by prosperous writers, artists, actors and such.

The same is soon to happen to the neighborhood of the Gracie Mansion. Michael Strange, wife of John Barrymore, was among the first to take a place. Here she writes her verses and her plays. The Duchess de Richelieu has rebuilt a corner and several actors have reconstructed old places. They have given it the flavor of the old England and have called it Henderson Place.

• • •

Once it was a little settlement, known as Yorkville, and for a time the heart of the city's German settlement. They moved on and others came.

It is one of the new places to visit when in New York. Just go to Eighty-eighth street and walk eastward.

GREENVILLE GRANGE TO MEET NEXT SATURDAY

A special meeting of the South Greenville grange will be held Saturday evening to confer first and second degrees upon new members. Unfavorable weather and bad condition of the roads delayed preparations for initiatory meetings which were to be held earlier.

At the annual meeting of the Wisconsin State grange at Antigo in December, it was decided to set aside a special day during the year as Grange day when every member of the organization throughout the state should give one day's work to solicit grange members. The date set was Feb. 19 and prizes were offered to the grange which secured the largest number of new members. South Greenville grange added 71 new members that day and several others have been obtained since.

Preparations are being made for an Easter dance Saturday evening, April 23.

NORTHWESTERN BUYS HUGE LOCOMOTIVES

Railroad May Operate Some of New Engines on Ashland Division

Twenty locomotives of the largest type ever owned by the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company have been purchased by that company and it is likely that they will operate through Appleton, according to W. B. Basing, local agent. The locomotives have been ordered from the American Locomotive company and although they have not yet been assigned to any particular division, some may be used on the Ashland division.

Twelve of the new machines will be of the Albany type, a recent development in the locomotive industry, and will be used primarily for freight service. They will have 27 by 32 inch cylinders and will weigh between 625,000 and 670,000 pounds, complete with tenders. At present the largest locomotives in service weigh about 430,000 pounds. The new machines will be equipped with the latest fuel saving devices.

The other eight locomotives are to be the eight wheel switching engines with 25 by 28 inch cylinders and will weigh about 224,000 pounds. The largest switching engines in service on the road at present are the six wheel type weighing approximately 165,000 pounds. The railroads are building larger locomotives in order that fewer engines can accomplish the same amount of work by hauling larger loads.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C.
Your Chiropractor of Course

Question—"I am a woman of thirty-nine and need advice. Am not at all strong, hardly able to do my housework, no appetite, rest poorly at night, have headaches and my back aches across the hips. Will Adjustments be alright considering my weakness?"

Answer—With such symptoms as you have named, why continue to neglect your health? Reliable, trustworthy advice resulting from thorough training and experience in the Drugless Science of Chiropractic is at your service to solve your health problems, thus insuring you both health and happiness. Spinal Adjustments offer you a systematic, practical, mechanical and exact method of restoring you to health. There is nothing about your case, as you have presented it, that should make you feel that hope is gone. We advise an immediate spinal examination to reveal what is causing your extreme weakness.

Question—"What is that instrument you are using in your practice, which people say is so wonderful?"

Answer—It's a newly invented instrument which enables me to locate nerves that are under pressure and obtain the degree of pressure positively and accurately. Until the production of this instrument we were compelled to depend upon our sense of touch in locating impinged nerves. The best at times would fail to locate the proper nerve. This instrument enables me to be certain in my work. It proves that nerves can be impinged. It proves the theory of Chiropractic.

WASTING THE OUTDOORS

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A STUDENT visiting Paris gave his impression thus of the French capital: "It is a city of garden chairs!"

It is true, along the Champs Elysee, on the Avenue du Bois du Bologne, and in the Bois itself—along all the boulevards and up at Montparnasse, they are in evidence by the thousand.

Paris is not the only European city where the sidewalk cafe is a fixture. They distinguish most of the continental metropoli. London and other English cities, like American cities, do not have the habit. It may be on account of rain, for which the British Isles have a fondness.

One cannot account for it otherwise, unless it be the natural reticence of the Englishman to parade his recreation, or that he merely wishes to take his air in the country.

When we think of it, isn't it delightful to eat under the sky! I don't mean picnics particularly, where the cake is likely to taste of sardines and one needs to have pale complexioned pie to be sure that the ants aren't around it but I do mean restaurants in gardens, tea tables 'gainst a background of holly-hocks and sodas under the stars.

Americans have a great penchant for staying indoors. A man will spend several hundred thousand dollars and several years building up an estate in the country, then take guests down from the city, feed them in a dining room with land-scape painted walls, and entertain them with bridge or billiards in a room like a rathskeller.

We have progressed without doubt. Our devotion to outdoor sports is proof enough. But still we do not have the outdoor habit. Every back yard is a potential garden. It would add another room to our house. Grass and flowers are a cheap carpet, and quick growing shade trees and shrubs are certainly worth while furniture. Nothing gives us the return that that growing things do.

Another thing: We did use to put porches on houses and sit on them. Now we box them in or leave them off. Why?

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

SAID Scouty, "Who will try his luck? I wonder if we will get stuck, if one of us goes in the well to find the pussycat." Then Clowny Tinymite replied, "We need a rope to drop inside. You must admit that I am smart to even think of that."

They found a rope not far away and shortly it was put in play. They tied one end tight to a tree, then dropped it down the well. Then Scouty gazed down far below and said, "I'll be the one to go. The rest of you stay close at hand. If I need help I'll yell."

So down he went hand over hand. He wondered just where he would land, and then he heard a low "Meow" and saw two shining eyes. "Ah, there you are," wee Scouty said. "I knew that you were from from dead. I've heard a cat has nine good lives and therefore never dies."

He took the kitten in his arms and clambored up away from harm. The other Tinies cheered him as he climbed out of the well. The lad who owned the kitty jumped up and down and waved his hat. Said he, "I thought my cat was gone; to see him sure is swell."

The Tinymites then left the lad quite satisfied they'd made him glad. They journeyed down the road a way and saw a skinny man. Said Scouty, "He's the one to meet. He's purchasing a bite to eat. What is that food he's trying to buy? It's in a tiny pan."

Then when they found the food was pie, they heard the skinny fellow sigh, "I haven't any money, so I just won't eat a bite. The Pieman turned and walked away just as the bunch heard Coppy say, "That skinny man is Simple Simon; don't you think I'm right?"

The tinymites meet Simple Simon in the next story.)

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

After a number of questions concerning the exact location of the body and its appearance, Banning instructed Bob to go on with his narrative.

"I stooped over my uncle. His head was resting on the right cheek, in a—a pool of blood," Bob's voice thickened with tears. "I did not touch him, for I realized instantly that he was dead. I—I saw that the back of his skull had been shattered. I looked about me, of course, and I saw a large Chinese vase lying on the carpet between the body and the open window—" His emphasis on the word 'open' was as unmistakable as the impression he desperately hoped to create—that his uncle had been slain by a person crouched in the open window.

Churchill smiled triumphantly but Banning scowled, realizing that his witness, an unwilling witness at best, was running away from him.

"Just a minute," Mr. Hathaway." Banning signalled to one of the assistant district attorneys, who immediately produced a well wrapped package from a black valise.

"As nearly as I can remember I said, 'Mr. Cluny is dead, Mary. For God's sake'—or something like that—'what happened here?'"

"And what did Mary Kearney say to you, Mr. Hathaway?" Banning went on relentlessly.

"I don't remember exactly, but she screamed out something about 'Miss Cherry,' that she had been there—"

"And what did you say to Mary Kearney then, Mr. Hathaway?"

"I don't remember exactly," Bob flushed. "I said something like this: 'Cherry! Oh, my God! Poor Faith! or 'This will kill Faith.'"

Banning puffed out his cocky little chest and almost chowed. "When you made that remark, Mr. Hathaway, did you believe that this defendant—"

"Objection!" Churchill roared like an angry lon.

"Objection sustained!" Judge Grimshaw rapped with his gavel. "Confine your questions to what the witness did and said, not to what he thought or believed."

"Very well, Mr. Hathaway. Go on with your story in your own words."

TOMORROW: The district attorney forces Bob to admit damaging facts about Cherry's shameful elopement with Albert Ettleson.

Love Letters Of The Great

AS COMPILED BY DIANA RICE

WARREN HASTINGS—1732-1818

As first governor-general of British India, Warren Hastings watched the unfolding of a history which etched out bloody chapters in its making. But the genius of Hastings several times saved the British Empire in the East, despite the enmity of colleagues who plotted his downfall with extraordinary boldness. The influence of one of his enemies in the House of Commons brought about the impeachment of Hastings on the ground of "high crimes and misdemeaners" during his service in India. Seven years later the House of Lords gave a verdict of not guilty, and Hastings retired to his ancestral home in the country, ruined in fortune but with reputation cleared.

It was on one of his trips to India that Hastings met the wife of Baron Imhoff, a German portrait-painter, with whom he fell deeply in love. The husband was apparently a worthless fellow who had made his wife wretchedly unhappy and was perfectly willing to have the marriage annulled. Madame Imhoff married Hastings five years after the chance meeting on an east-bound steamer, and their life together was one of complete happiness.

Warren Hastings to His Wife

Benares, Oct. 1, 1784.

My dearest Marian—I am indeed a fortunate man, and am tempted to adopt the term even to superstition: and no wonder, for the belief has seized others long since, and universally. Last night, at about nine o'clock, Major Sands brought me the news of Pipps's arrival at Calcutta, and (may God bless them both for it!) a short but blessed letter from you, dated the 15th of May, the day of your departure from St. Heléna, and written on board the "Atlas." It tells me only that you were safe on board and well, but it tells enough and it is written in the language of cheerfulness and affection.

All my past doubts, and the fixed gloom which has so long overspread my imagination are dissipated, like the darkness before the equimoctical sun rising on the plains of Suckrowl (do, my dear Marian, allow me to talk nonsense), and have given place to the confident hope that every dreded obstruction will follow them, and that I am once more destined to happiness. I am already happy; for, as God is my witness that I prefer your happiness to my own, I feel the measure of my present joy full, with the information that I have recently received.

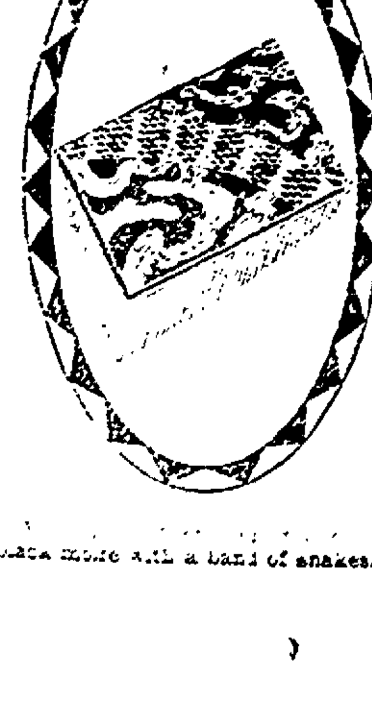

At what a time will you have arrived in England! If nothing has happened between the "Surprise's" departure and your landing to change the public opinion of your husband (and I think it not likely that it should have been changed), you will find his name standing in high and universal credit; and what a welcome will it be to you! I have now but one wish remaining (yes, one more), viz., to be able to leave the stage of active life while my fortune is in the zenith of its prosperity, and while I have a constitution yet repairable.

I must repress myself, for if I write all that the fulness of my heart is ready to dictate, I shall never come to an end, and I have this to copy. How it is to go I know not. I shall trust one to Mr. Beddam, and the other to Mr. Hay in Calcutta, to be despatched as each shall find means. Adieu, my beloved, my most deserving and lovely Marian. May the God whose goodness I have so wonderfully experienced bless you with health, safety and comfort, and me with the repossession of my sweet Marian! Amen! Amen! Amen! I never loved you so much as I do at this instant, and as I have loved you since the delightful news of last night.

Adieu, my most beloved, adieu!

NORMAL WAISTLINE

Belts creep nearer the normal waist line as the season progresses. Either regulation waistline or tight hip-line are the two most approved placings for the belt.

BOW-FROCK

Pacquin makes an eevning frock with the skirt a huge bow in front, and a huge bow in rear. The short, slim underskirt scarcely shows.

GOLD LACE

Gold and silver lace can be cleaned by brushing with alcohol or gasoline, while laid out carefully on a bath towel.

WHITE BLOUSES

White silk blouses can be kept white by rolling up in both towels as soon as laundered and ironing the minute they are dry enough. Exposure to air yellows the silk.

BY HIS NECKWEAR YOU SHALL KNOW HIM; TIES OFFSET PLAIN SHIRT

BY WALTER J. BROOKE

NEW YORK—Through no other sartorial medium does man exoress his innermost self more eloquently than through his neckwear. More often than not it is of this important of attire that Mr. Average Man as well as Mr. Best Dresser is most solicitous.

And here is a pre-Easter season offering an extraordinary treat in the way of adornment for the neck. This, largely, because, while shirtings have assumed an unusual sombreness, cravats are impressive in their brightness.

IDEAL COMBINATION

Men whose tastes the fashion dictators watch, who, in other words, are the original arbiters of men's modes, are contending that the ideal combination is a bright tie against a plain or semi-plain shirt. Know then that to no matter what extreme of color you may go in your ties, you will be within fashion's bounds so long as your shirt remains conspicuously in the rear (figuratively as well as literally.)

Nearly all the new neckwear designs are small on solid backgrounds or with vivid futuristic or impressionistic effects. There is a tendency to return to the regimental stripe but it is not expected to gain the high favor it has enjoyed in seasons agone.

Expected by far to be the strongest feature in spring, Easter and summer neckwear is the university crest motif. Developed by several tie makers, it has met with considerable approval from Gotham's best dressers.

NEW MOVE

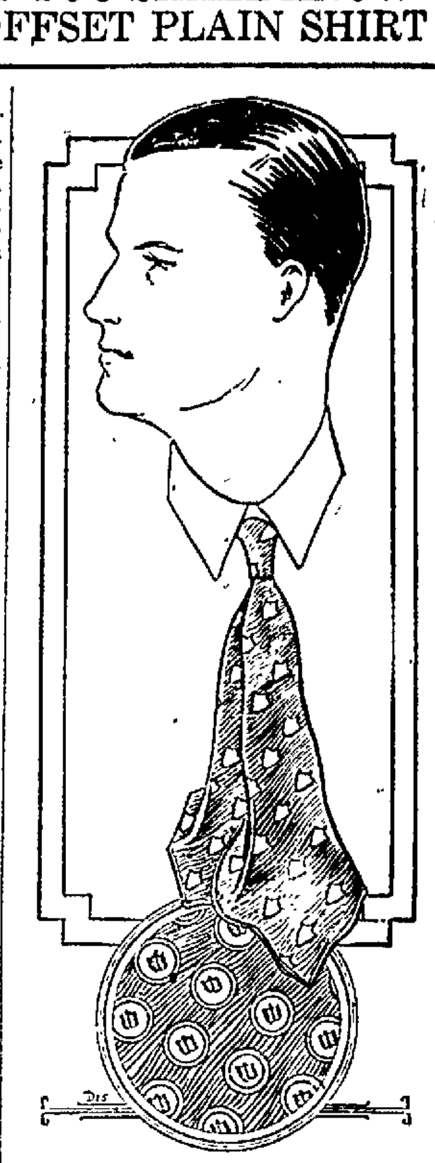

Here, again, the collegiate influence has made itself felt. For by his neckwear, your undergraduate or alumnus can now spot his fellow collegian or his bitter rival.

It is rather a new move in neckwear to have the crests or insignia motif of various universities for a field. For years, fraternities and colleges have had their neckwear colors and hat bands made to order.

The crests themselves are rather quiet and unobtrusive, and are worked out in harmonizing shades against solid backgrounds. They are featured mostly in foulards, the ideal spring and summer tie silk. More than thirty-five leading universities are represented in present designs and still more are expected to be made up.

The ties themselves are slightly wider than those of the preceding three years.

Likewise, flat silks are still far in the majority when it comes to a question of cut silk and knitted silks. The latter are always good with the business suit but never with formal day clothes.

TWO UNIVERSITY INSIGNIA MOTIFS—EFFECT AND DETAIL.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BREAKFAST—Steamed figs, cereal, cream, creamed dried beef, crisp whole wheat, toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON — Baked spaghetti with eggs and cheese, jellied orange salad, rye bread, nut and date cookies, milk, tea.

Onions, carrots and celery are cooked with the chicken en casserole, so an extra vegetable is not planned. Baked spakhetti with eggs and cheese is an excellent luncheon dish during the lenten season.

BAKED SPAGHETTI, EGGS AND CHEESE

Four hard cooked eggs, one cup broken spaghetti, 4 tablespoons grated cheese, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 3-4 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon each pepper and mustard, parsley.

To hard cook the eggs put them into about 1 quart of cold cater. Bring to the boiling point, reduce heat and simmer without bubbling for fifteen minutes. Plunge at once into cold water and let stand five minutes. Remove shells and cut in thin slices crosswise. Cook spaghetti in rapidly boiling salted water for fifteen minutes. Drain and dip in cold water.

Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. Mix salt, pepper and mustard and stir in to sauce. Bring sauce to the boiling point. Put a layer of spaghetti into a well buttered baking dish, add a layer of sauce and cover with a layer of eggs. Continue layer for layer of spaghetti, sauce and eggs until all are used, making the last layer of spaghetti. Cover with grated cheese and bake twenty-five minutes in a moderately hot oven. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and serve from baking dish.

Afternoon Frocks

Relax from the severity of tailored modes with flounces of lace and draped girdles

From $15 Upward

While the simple, tailored frock has a hundred uses, it has not displaced the lace-trimmed frock that is so distinctly feminine and so at home at the bridge party, the tea or the luncheon of one's favorite club. Lovely frocks of georgette or crepe Elizabeth have flounces of lace, bandings, pleating, tucks wide and narrow, and motif designs. Favorite shades are twilight blue, rose, rose beige, and the infinite shadings of tan so becoming to almost every woman. Necklines may be square in the new spring fashion, or round or V-shaped in the manner that is most becoming to the individual face and figure.

Draped Girdles Give Grace to the Hip Line

Very graceful are the girdles and the gleaming rhinestone belts that define the hip line of these smart frocks. The one-piece style predominates and the lines are straight with a slightly bloused effect at the hip line. The woman with a very slender figure will delight in the more elaborate girdle with a smart bow to finish it, but there is a model becoming for every figure. $15 and upward.

TOWN OF BRILLION VOTES DOWN FENCES TO KEEP ROADS OPEN

Calumet-co Town Votes 2 Mill Tax for Highway Purposes

Forest Junction—Transactions totalling nearly $48,00 were covered by the financial report for the town of Brillion, presented at the annual town meeting here Tuesday forenoon. Total expenditures aggregated $35,846.12, of which over $11,000 was spent on roads and streets, bridges and culverts. The largest individual project was a new bridge, commonly known as the "Luber" bridge, built at a cost of $1320 by the town and county. Snow removal work on the highways amounted to $243.84. Tuition paid by the town for students attending nearby high schools amounted to $2132, of which $72 was paid to Appleton high school, the balance to Brillion.

WON'T BUY FENCE

Proposals for the purchase of snow fencing for portions of town roads particularly subjected to drifting snow were turned down by the meeting after a lengthy discussion. The sum of $1000 was voted for incidental purposes, and a similar amount for culverts and small bridges. A two mill tax was voted for general highway purposes. The assesor's salary was fixed at $3.50 per day. The present system of town highway supervision, which is in vogue in all towns of the county excepting one, will be continued with the same wage schedule as last year, 35c per hour for hand labor, and 60c per hour for man and team.

The annual township contest in spelling, writing, and arithmetic for one and two room schools in Calumet-co will be held for schools in this locality at Alcott school at 1:15 Saturday afternoon.

The contests, held at convenient centers in the county, opened on April 2 and will be concluded on April 16.

Teachers are instructed to determine the location most convenient for themselves and their pupils, and it is expected that all of the schools in town Brillion and possibly from across the boundary in town Woodville will be represented at Alcott school Saturday afternoon.

Other school events scheduled for the closing term are the diploma examinations which will be held at central locations on May 7 and 14, and the annual play day and county commencement exercises at Chilton on May 28.

In the Chrysler "50", Walter P. Chrysler and his corps of engineers, studying the field of fine and low-priced six-cylinder cars, strove to produce a four-cylinder car which would unmistakably advertise its greater value by its greater performance, greater sturdiness and greater long life.

In its 50-miles-plus per hour, 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, 25 miles to the gallon, they gave the public something immediate, something convincing, something final and conclusive with which to measure Chrysler "50" against and above anything around its class either in six or four cylinders.

Chrysler "50" has been overwhelmingly accepted by the public for what it was designed and built to be—the giant of its class in Standardized Quality, outstanding performance, full family size, complete appointment and every essential that makes for outstanding and indisputable value.

JOAN MARION HAS LEADING ROLE IN "GENTLEMEN PREFER BLONDES"

Never has a farce held an audience more completely under its spell of fun and frolic than the Anita Loos-John Emerson play, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," which is announced for Fischer's Appleton theatre, Thursday night April 7 and acted by the Edgar Selwyn company.

Miss Loos and Mr. Emerson have taken the best parts of Lorelei's diary for weaving a play and have embellished them with many new, smart sayings, wise-cracks and situations that are irresistibly funny, just as Miss Loos' book of the same name as the play caused no end of laughter.

Lorelei travels in luxury, of course, and it is in a very elaborate and costly suite on an ocean liner that the first act is laid for Lorelei to begin operating. In the second act Lorelei is found in another costly suite in a Paris hotel, where her cleverness, adroitness, and complete mastery of everybody keeps the fun up to a continuous round of real joy.

In the last act Lorelei has returned to New York and in her apartment she is having her coming out party, to conform to the customs of good society and such a party, lasting as it does for three days and three nights. More fun and laughter until the final curtain.

The principal players in the cast of twenty-one are Joan Marion, Mary Ricard, William Courneen, Herbert Standing, Ada Sinclair, Lois Arnold, Josephine Morse, Edward La Roche, Martin Wolfson and Jay Reed.

HARESFOOT PLAY

Appearing in Rockford Friday night in their premiere performance of "Meet the Prince," the Haresfoot troupers played to capacity house and won the approval of the 'first-night' critics. The few minor hitches and slips in the afternoon performance were ironed out at the impromtou rehearsal between shows and the evening performance was put over as though the boys were members of a troupe of seasoned performers.

John Moran, the student-author, of the play was awarded the greatest praise by the Rockford critics and audience. In the role of Mrs. Batz he particularly starred in the Gibson Girl number of the second act.

Kerbie Earle and John Mackin who carry the heaviest roles as female impersonators were given great praise for their finished performance. And Jimmie Moran and Harold Himes were rated as the best of Haresfoot dancers.

Bunny Lyons' musical number received great acclaim and was repeated for encores. Bunny is one of Appleton's proteges and was a former student at Lawrence College.

Saturday afternoon and evening the show played to capacity houses; the tickets having been completely sold out two weeks ago.

The show plays both matinee and evening in Appleton and present indications point toward the company looking forward to playing before capacity houses for both shows. The troupe will play here on Wednesday, April 13 as its final show before coming in off the road. Last year with the show "Mary Ann" Appleton was the first town played in. Now it will have a chance to witness the stellar performance of a troupe of seasoned performers.

The mail-order ticket sale has already opened at Belling's Drug Store. Tickets may be obtained at the box-office starting Monday, April 11.

"CHEERFUL FRAUD" IS HOT DISH FOR LAUGHTER LOVERS

Recipe for an exciting weekend: take an English nobleman under an assumed name, a crook who poses as the nobleman, a newly rich social climber and his wife, a gold-digger with a package of the inevitable letters and a pretty social secretary, mix together in a country home and watch the results.

At least that is what happens in "The Cheerful Fraud," the large and pleasant dose of entertainment dished up to patrons of Fischer's Appleton theatre tonight.

With Reginald Denny in a picture—any picture—comedy and excitement is bound to occur. And with Denny in a story which so perfectly fits his capabilities and affords him such excellent opportunity to be the comedian, the result is not laughable—it's roarable.

Fans of the popular Reginald are declaring that it is his funniest farce. Its plot gets off the beaten track of most farce comedies, and its workmanlike treatment speaks worlds for the ability of William A. Seiter, who directed the production.

Gertrude Olmstead, Otis Harlan, Gertrude Astor, Emily Fitzroy, Charles Gerrard and others are prominent in the supporting cast.

"The Cheerful Fraud" was based on the humorous novel by K. R. G. Brown, published as "The Cheerful Liar."

"THE MONKEY TALKS" A NOVEL MYSTERY THAT THRILLS

Mystery—intriguing and tingling.

Drama—tense and breathless.

Such are the ingredients of Fox Films pictorial version of the sensational mystery play, "The Monkey Talks," at the New Bijou today and Thursday.

Every element of motion picture entertainment is crammed into this picture. The roles are characterized by well known screen favorites. Olive Borden is cast in the leading role, with Don Alvarado, Jane Winton, Raymond Hitchcock, Malcolm Waite and August Tollaire featured.

Jacques Lerner, who holds the distinction of being the world's most celebrated portrayal of animals, journeyed from Paris to create for the screen the role of Jocko, the talking monkey. Mr. Lerner originated the role in the stage play and won such outstanding success that Fox Films signed him for the same role in the films.

Registration of motor vehicles in the United States in 1926 was 22,274,643, an increase of 2,044,618 over 1925.

CHINESE SUPERSTITIOUS, PASTOR TELLS MEATING

That the Chinese still are surprisingly superstitious is the statement made by the Rev. H. L. C. Hallock, Shanghai, China, in a letter to A. G. Meating ,county superintendent of schools. Pictures of tigers play an important part in the life of the Chinese, according to Reverend Hallock

Four kinds of tigers are portrayed in pictures. They are the yellow and black tiger, the black tiger, the white tiger and the money tiger. The white one is a sign of bad luck. From childhood on the Chinaman is taught to fear the tiger or "Lao-hu." Great faith is had in the bones claws and sinews of this animal.

RAIN SPOILS FINAL TRAINING DAYS FOR MAJOR TEAMS

Rooks Become Excited As Opening Day Games Of Leagues Draw Near

Cubs Increase Batting Power Daily in Preparation for Opener Tuesday

Many rookies on the squads of Yankees, Giants and Robins are looking forward with a tremor or two to the opening of the playing season next week. Rainy days have given them plenty of chance to think about their prospects.

Brooklyn was the only club of the three to get a chance to play Monday and the rookies showed their stuff.

The Philadelphia Athletics and Phillies meet for the third game of their pre-season baseball series Wednesday. Victory Wednesday would give the Athletics three straight.

The homeward journey of the Chicago Cubs for the opening game of the baseball season a week away, looks like the path of a snowball downhill, with hitting power increasing at each stop among the minor leagues.

Everybody got at least one from a trip of Tulsa pitchers Monday.

The White Sox were held at their Shreveport camp Monday by rain.

Manager "Bucky" Harris, fearful that his injured finger will keep him out of the Washington lineup for some time after the big league season opens expects to undergo an operation on the digit shortly after reaching the Capital Thursday.

Th Senators and the New York Giants are slated for a battle at Augusta Ga., Wednesday, rain having prevented a clash Monday.

With only six days remaining before the season starts, Manager Bob O'Farrell is looking at his Cardinal team and pride is reflected in his comments. The Browns came back Monday and defeated the Fort Worth Miners, 6 to3.

Manager Moriarity of the Detroit Tigers is having trouble arranging a batting lineup in which the work of his sluggers will show to best advantage.

A general shift was tried out Monday at Dallas, but with disastrous results and further changes are in prospect.

Detroit made ten hits against Dallas Tuesday but was able to collect but two runs, while Dallas made four on five hits.

UHLE OPENS SEASON

will pitch the opening game here Tuesday, Manager Jack McAllister has announced.

Carl Mays is slated to pitch for the Cincinnati Nationals against the Louisville team of the American Association at Louisville Wednesday.

The Pittsburg Pirates defeated the Waco club of the Texas league Monday, 6-5.

BUTTE DES MORTS WILL OPEN SUNDAY PRACTICE COURSE

Hope to Open Entire Course Soon; Improvement of Greens and Fairways

The practice course of Butte des Morts country club will be open for play next Sunday unless there are heavy rains before that time, according to A. H. Krugmeier, President of het Winnegamie Land Co. The regular course will be opened soon if favorable weather continues. The opening date depends on the condition of fairways.

WELCH BACK APRIL 15

Frank Walsh, professional, is under contest to be here for work on May 1 but it is expected that he will be on hand by at least April 15 for preliminary work on the course. Walsh has had a successful season in western and southern golf tourneys. Jack Taylor, groundkeeper, already is on the course.

The only changes contemplated at the club this year tend toward more efficiency, Mr. Krugmeier said. Last year considerable moneys were spent for new machinery and equipment and this year more money will be spent on the greens and fairways. Improvements may be made on the lockerhouse later in the season, but no plans for this work have been started yet.

W. Beverly Murphy, 813 E. College-ave, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Murphy, was appointed Wednesday to act as general chairman of the 1927 homecoming celebration of the University of Wisconsin by the Badger athletic board of control. Murphy in new capacity will plan and supervise all of the activities in connection with the annual returning of Badger alumni for the football celebration in the fall. The local youth will be a junior next fall. While at Appleton high school he won his letter in basketball his senior year and also was a regular on the 1925 track squad.

VETERAN MENTOR IS REWARDED FOR SERVICE

New York—A non-university man has been awarded the varsity "P" for the first time at the University of Pennsylvania.

He is George Kistler, swimming instructor there for thirty years.

Kistler was recently awarded a varsity letter as reward for faithful service over this stretch of years.

Kistler, in his thirty years' service with Penn, has taught thousands of students to swim. Every Penn graduate must know how to swim. As a result, as many as 2,000 students a year have been taught the art by the veteran coach.

NO CHANGES MARKED UP IN A. B. C. PIN TOURNEY

Peoria, Ill.—(AP)—Distance failed to lend enchantment to the business of getting ten pins at the American Bowling Congress tournament here Monday night. Teams from widespread points of the country were unable to break into the leaders.

BADGER SWIMMER IN NATIONAL TANK MEET

Madison — Winston Kratz, star breast-stroker of the University of Wisconsin, will carry the Cardinal colors to Chicago Wednesday to compete in his favorite event in the National A. A. swimming championships. Kratz recently established a new western conference record when he clipped the 200 yard distance in 2 min. 42 sec.

G. B. Brainerd, C. A. A., Walter Spence, Central Y. of Brooklyn, and Ed Lennox, Northwestern University are the leading breast-strokers entered in the meet to date. The former is the title-holder in the event for a distance of 150 yards, but may not be so effective over a longer route. Carter, Iowa, Star, will not compete due to ill-health.

San Antonio, Texas.—Sammy Ratner, Minneapolis, outpointed Kid Lencho, Eagle Pass (10).

Dave's Dots And Dashes

Chief Williams, veteran outfielder, may be among the missing when the Green Bay Valley leaguers hop off in the flag chase. As yet, Manager Clusman hasn't heard anything from the Chief definitely but it is understood that he has an all year job in a lumber camp in northern Wisconsin.

Baseball moguls of the Valley league will meet in Appleton Sunday and attempt to settle the 'fuss' over the schedule. Arranging of a seven team outline is a difficult job and several of the club owners have refused point blank to accept the playing dates assigned by the committee.

Earl Howard, who has pitched a lot of baseball for teams in Wisconsin, is attempting a comeback in organized baseball with Nashville of the Southern league. Howard took the mound against the Brewers in a recent game and Otto Borchert's much abused hirling knocked his uniform off. He hurled for Appleton in the Valley loop one year.

Organizers of the Nee-Menasha Golf club are making splendid progress as a number of prospective members have already placed their names on the dotted line. A splendid site for a course is under option and those back of the project feel sure that the links will soon be in use.

President PreFontaine of the Fox river valley league is facing a busy summer of baseball. Aside from directing the activities of the Valley circuit, he will have a hand in several other wheels besides playing a leading role in the direction of the State Home Players Baseball association.

Despite the fact that he has lost a number of his point winners, Murph White, coach at Green Bay West thinks his track team will be among the topnotchers in this part of the state. White has his speedsters working out early and some of the new material, it is said, looks very promising.

CAPTAINS GOLF TEAM

James Robbins, amateur golf champion of Pennsylvania, will captain the Princeton golf team in competition this spring. Another prominent member of the Princeton golf team is John D. Ames, son of "Snake" Ames, of former Princeton grid fame.

Madison— Rapid strides in spring football drill at the University of Wisconsin are being experienced by the large squadron of men working under Glenn Thistlethwaite here on Camp Randall gridiron. Irrespective of weather conditions the Badger mentor is pursuing his training program.

New York—Sergeant Sammy Baker, Mitchell Feld, defeated George Ward, Elizabeth, N. J. (10).

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Ponce De Leon, Cuba, defeated Joe Marks, Philadelphia (10).

DRAKE ENTRY

CHUCK M'GINNIS

Badger all-around track star who is expected to be a feature of the great Drake relays. M'Ginnis set a new Wisconsin record both indoors and outdoors with a pole-vault of 13 feet 3 inches this week.

Although conditions in the little red gymnasium are far from ideal for record vaults, McGinnis entered a class with about five athletes in America when he surpassed the 13 foot mark in indoor performance.

Should Chuck specialize in the vault, there is no doubt that he would be the class of America but he spends equal time on the hurdles and high jump because of loyalty to his team. He is a consistent point winner in each event and therefore aids the Wisconsin team point total. His work in the three events lead the Badgers to the 1927 indoor title this winter. Perhaps no greater individaul all-around star exists in America today than M'Ginnis who even consented to run the half-mile, an event altogether strange to him, to take the all-around crown in the Illinois games. In another almost new event the dash, he took a second place.

ROUDEBUSH AND MOLL WIN DOUBLES TOURNEY

Miss S. Roudebush and J. Moll copped first place in the mixed doubles bowling tournament at the Arcade alleys, rolling a 1102 score with games of 387, 372 and 344, to take first money, $4. Second money of $2, went to Miss L. Dunn and J. Driesen with 358, 346, 344-1048, and third prize of $1.70 went to Miss E. Ellis and Henry Strutz with 313, 356, 359-1028.

Other scores were:

E. Dunn and Herman Strutz, 347, 332, 324, 1033; Miss I. Maley and O. Kasten, 318, 315, 366-999; Mrs. S. Jens and E. Strutz, 331, 307, 348-986; Mrs. G. Koerner and E. Koerner, 330, 366, 286-982. Another tourney will be held soon.

EX-GIANT COACHES ARMY

Harry "Moose" McCormick, former New York Giant, is now coaching the baseball squad at West Point. It was through McCormick's influence that the New York Yankees and Giants agreed to play the Keydets a game before the major league season opened. J. Stewart Mills, Appleton boy, is playing in the Army outfield.

CRUICKSHANK WINS FOUR LINKS MEETS

Youthful Bobby Takes Sensational String of Triumphs in Winter Meet

BY JIMMY POWERS

New York—The flowers that bloom in the spring tra-la-la are not the only blossoms on the landscape. There is a whole mess of par and bogey horticulturists at work and if they keep up with the winter pace they are setting there will be thunderous explosions in the golf world this summer.

Bobby Cruikshank's sensational string of victories, including the Texas, South Central, Los Angeles, United North and South opens, mark him as being ready for national titleseeking.

He is the only Joe College of the outfit. Bobby doffed the cap and gown of Edinburgh University and went to work dragging down tournament purses.

His triumphs have been in meets with a total prize value of $20,000, making him the big dollars and cents man of the season.

Down in Florida, Gene Sarazen has returned to his best medal play form, taking the Miami and the Miami Beach opens with plenty to spare. His 277 in the latter was the best performance of the winter up to that time.

"Light Horse" Harry Cooper galloped home at Monterey and also knocked off Hagen in a 72-hole walkaway; Joe Turnesa won at Sacramento; Bill Mehlhorn was the Santa Clara victor; Tommy Armour was the winner at Long Beach.

Wild Bill, the reformed plasterer, has been playing better golf on cards than any of them if averages mean anything. His is a shade over 72 for 324 holes. Armour has 73, Cruikshank and Turnesa 73½ and Cooper 74. Hagen is in a slump and his cards of 74, 82, 77 and 79 do not sound like the Sir Walter of old.

In the last four P. G. A. championships Hagen has won 19 matches and lost one—a defeat at the hands of Sarazen. Since then he has taken 15 consecutive matches in P. G. A. play; so frenzied efforts to bury him in his current slump are nothing if not ludicrous.

In the open tournaments this summer both Hagen and Sarazen will find their hands full with Cruikshank, Turnesa, Mehlhorn and others coming on like a horse and buggy.

RIESELT WELL IN WAY TO RECOVER CUE TITLE

Chicago—(AP)—Otto Rieselt of Philadelphia, who lost his three-cushion billiard title here a few weeks ago to Augie Kieckhefer of Chicago, is well on his way today to recapture the crown. In their challenge match at 56-point blocks, Reiselt is 48 points ahead of Kieckhefer, with the last two blocks to be completed Wednesday.

The Philadelphian ran out his 60-point block Monday night in 51 innings, while the best Kieckhefer could accumulate was 29.

STAR VAULTERS ENTER PENN RELAY CARNIVAL

Philadelphia —(AP)— Pennsylvania's relay carnival April 29 and 30 has attracted a brilliant field of pole vaulters.

Among them are Sabbin Carr, holder of the worlds' indoor record of 13 feet 9¼ inches; Steve Bradley Princeton, Frank Glaser, Marquette University, Milwaukee, and Harold McAtee, Michigan State.

CHAMPION HAS HAZY IDEAS ON FOOTBALL

San Francisco, Calif.—Gene Tunney has a somewhat confused idea about this game called football, according to Stanford students who heard him talk recently at Palo Alto.

The heavyweight champ said he couldn't understand why football was considered a major sport and boxing was only a minor sport in colleges.

"Why, a boxer has to think," he is reported to have said, "while a coach does the thinking for the entire team in football."

That remark and others gave the undergraduates quite a laugh, and also made them think the champ was not quite up on the grid game.

Madison — The Cardinal baseball nine, now sauntering through the south on its annual spring training trip, will clash with Indiana this week down in Dixie. Wisconsin scored a 4 to 0 shut-out against Union University of Tennessee in their first game Saturday and then tied the University of Mississippi 44 in 11 innings.

CHUCK M'GINNIS TO FEATURE BIG RELAY

Star Badger All-around Man Expected to Star in Contests at Drake

Des Moines, Ia.—One of the most versatile athletes in the Western conference, Charles E. (Chuck) McGinnis, all-around indoor champion of the Big Ten, will be a feature of the eighteenth annual Drake relays, April 29 and 30, Relays Director Ossie Solem announced Wednesday after being informed by Tom Jones, Wisconsin track mentor, that the Badgers' entry here would include the above mentioned individual.

Recently, the Badgers won the indoor track championship of the Western conference, dethroning the University of Iowa. Of the twenty-eight points scored by the Badgers, McGinnis made fifteen, scoring firsts in the polo vault with a climb of 12 feet 10 inches, in the 60-yard high hurdles, which he won in 7 6-10 seconds, and in the high jump, wherein he cleared the bar at a height of 6 feet 5 inches.

Prior to that the blonde-haired Badger flash, whose home is in Kansas City, captured the all-around at the Illinois relays, scoring the second highest total of points ever piled up in all-around competition.

Perhaps, no greater individual all-around star in America exists today than McGinnis, who even consented to run the one-half mile, an event entirely strange to him, in order to be crowned the versatile king at the Illinois games.

GREENVILLE BALL CLUB WANTS GAMES FOR 1927

The South Greenville Grange baseball team held its annual meetings Sunday and elected its officers for the coming year. The Grangers expect to have another strong team. Teams desiring games should get in touch with Manager Merle Anderson, route 10, Neenah.

Two Badger Boats Work For 'Keepsie Regatta

Madison—(AP)—Two crowded boats, manned by perspiring oarsmen, who dig doggedly at their oars until a hoarse voiced coswain cries "Let er run," are the only craft fuffling the icy waters of Lake Mendota.

The two tugs manned by Coach "Dad" Vails crew candidates fighting for a chance to sit in the cardinal boat at the Poughkeepsie Regatta, are cutting the water every afternoon.

Weather conditions have kept smaller and less stable craft from riding the swells. Canoes which bloom only under a pleasant sun or a blue moon are not in evidence, but the University of Wisconsin crew labors on knowing the handicap it is fighting against in having had less than two weeks "water experience."

When sufficient ice had broken away from the lake shore to allow the shells to pass through a narrow channel, the Badger oarsmen were lowering their boats into the water. Although the greater part of the lake was frozen over, Coach Harry Vail had his men in barges for the earliest workout in 16 years.

Under the ever-watchful eye of "Dad" Vail and his assistant, Oscar Techmeyer, the men are bending enthusiastically to their task in rounding out an eight that has the advantage of early open-air training. The 1926 crew was seriously handicapped at Poughkeepsie because of their failure to get on the lake until the latter part of April, but this years outlook is much brighter, and the Cardinal will be a formidable contender against the Eastern Institutions.

The following men on the crew roster have shown best to date: Capt. Jeff. Burrus, Louisville, Ky., Lawrence Kingsbury, Rockford, Henry Hagemeister, Green Bay, Ralph Casselman, Milwaukee, D. N. Lunde, Oak Park; Homer Kieweg, Kewaunee; John Colbrans, Robert Senter, Madison; Allen Bibby, Erie, ... Wells, ... Fond du Lac; Robert Stebbins, Madison, Don Wormel, Cambridge, Frank Zahoris, Howard Keist, Edwin Rasting, Delavan.

Appleton In Turmoil As War Broke Ten Years Ago Today

War!

Just 10 years ago Wednesday this heart-rending, pulse-quickening word reverberated from one end of the country to the other.

Just 10 years at 1:13 Wednesday afternoon the United States formally entered the World War against Germany. President Woodrow Wilson signed the war resolution, passed by the house and senate, at this hour, and the United States was in the greatest conflict in all history.

The front pages of afternoon papers on that day screamed out the news in large, black headlines. Preparations were under way at once to enlist 2,000,000 men. Ninety-one German vessels in American waters were seized. Tense excitement prevailed everywhere as communities made arrangements for patriotic demonstrations.

LOYALTY PARADE

Hardly had the announcement of war been uttered before plans were being formulated in Appleton for a giant loyalty parade and meeting to be held the following Monday afternoon. Business places, including the saloons, were to be closed during the program. Prominent citizens were scheduled to give addresses.

Information from Madison indicated that Company G probably would be called out within 24 hours. Appleton papers carried advertisements urging young men to enlist in Co. G rather than wait for conscription. Officers to examine applicants were on duty day and night at the armory.

President Wilson, immediately after signing the joint resolution for war, issued a proclamation asking all American citizens "in loyal devotion to their country dedicated from its founding to the principles of liberty and justice" "to uphold the laws of the land and give undivided and willing support to all measures adopted by the government in prosecuting the war to a successful issue" and "in attaining a secure and just peace."

WILSON'S STATEMENT

He also issued the following statement regarding means to be chosen to raise the army of 2,000,000 men asked for by the war heads the night before:

"The principles embodied in the legislation presented by the war department to the military committees of the senate and the house of representatives have my entire approval and its specific recommendation embodied is that it is the best judgment of the officers of the war department. It proposes to raise the forces necessary to meet the present emergency by bringing the army and guard to war strength, and by adding additional forces so that the army will comprise three elements—the regular army, national guard, and dthe so-called additional forces of which the first 500,009 is to be authorized immediately and later in increments of 500,000 as they may be needed. In order that all these forces may comprise a single army, the term of enlistment is equalized and will be for the term of emergency.

"The necessary men will be secured for the regular army and national guard by volunteering as at present until in the judgment of the president, a resort to a selective draft is desired.

"The additional forces, however, are to be raised by selective draft from men ranging in ages from 19 to 25 years.

HOPE FOR PEACE

"The quotas of the several states in all of these forces will be in proportion to their population. This legislation makes no attempt to solve the question of a permanent military policy of the country, chiefly for the reason that in these anxious and disordered times a clear view cannot be had either of our permanent necessities or of the mode of organizing the proper military peace establishment. The hope of world is that when the war is over arrangements will have been made composing many of the questions which have hitherto seemed to require the arming of the nation and that in some orderly and just way, the peace of the nation may be attained."

Although the majority of cities were planning loyalty meetings, a few cities in the state either had or were going to conduct referendums on the war. Sheboygan and Monroe were two cities which took this latter action, and both were severely scored by an editorial in The Appleton Post.

"The two cities have disgraced themselves by assuming the authority to settle a question of vital importance to the nation that belongs to congress, by the cunning displayed in the statement of the question, by the assumption of the necessary information and ability to settle the question rightly, and by the unfortunate decision reached," the editorial said in part.

On the day after war was declared, the German interned cruise Cormorant was blown up by its crew in the harbor of Guam, an announcement by the navy department said.

The ship was destroyed by the Germans as the United States marines were going to seize the vessel. Two German warrant officers and five German enlisted men were killed. Twenty German officers, 12 warrant officers and 321 enlisted men of the vessel were taken prisoners.

It also was reported on April 7, 1917, that Austro-Hungary apparently had broken relations with the United States.

U. W. ISSUES 46,000 BIDS TO COMMENCEMENT

Madison—(AP)— President Glenn Frank's signature will be stamped upon 46,000 invitations to be distributed among the alumni and ex-students of the University of Wisconsin requesting their presence at the four-day commencement reunion week in June.

With the new men's dormitories as a center for the returning alumni and with an enlarged program of alumni activities the class and general reunions this year are expected to bring more alumni than ever to their alma mater. Some 350 alumni will be able to secure rooms in the men's dormitories and will have their meals at the dormitory refectory.

The general alumni association program is concentrated in one afternoon and evening, that of Saturday, June 18, when the business meeting, the alumni-senior-faculty picnic, the senior-alumni banquet, the president's reception and the senior-alumni reception will be held.

Worn Out Paper Money Good For Other Uses

Having succeeded in producing in its experimental paper mill an improved quality of paper for making the government paper money, the Bureau of Standards has reversed the process and produced a good quality of paper from the paper money after it has served its useful life. This is a part of further effort in cooperation with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the Bureau of Efficiency of effect economy in Government currency expenditures.

The worn-out paper currency returned to the Treasury Department for redemption, together with a small proportion of spoiled paper and trimmings from the currency printing processes, amounts to approximately four tons daily. At the present time this material is macerated at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and is sold in the form of pulp containing some 70 per cent of water and practically all the ink. No atempt is made to clean the pulp, the process being carried only far enough to comply with the requirements for protection against unlawful use of the waste paper, that is, that it be entirely defibered so that no printed characters can be distinguished, and that all distinctive features of the paper itself be removed. In this form, the pulp is suitable for coarse paper products only, such as certain grades of boards owing to its large content of impurities which occur in the form of lumps. For this reason the price received is so low that according to a survey of the situation made by the Bureau of Efficiency, the maceration of the material is costing annually from $15,000 to $18,000. As the original paper is composed of the highest grade linen and cotton rag fibers, a clean pulp produced from the waste paper should have a ready market for fine writing and printing papers at a considerably increased price.

It is estimated that by so improving the product the present loss can be turned to a profit, amounting possibly to $50,000.

The material presents unusual resistance to the ordinary de-inking treatments, owing to the hardness and toughness of the paper, the large amount of ink present, and the resistant quality of the ink. It was found possible, however, to completely deink and otherwise quite thoroughly clean it with semi-commercial machinery consisting of a duster, a rotary digester, and a beater equipped with a drum washer. The paper produced from the pulp compared quite favorably with good grades of a fine writing and printing papers. As is to be expected, considering the wear to which the paper money is subjected, and the weakening effect of the various de-inking and defibering processes, a large proportion of the original strength of the fibers is lost. The recovered fiber paper, however, is sufficiently strong for the purpose mentioned, being somewhat stronger than that made from new sulphite fiber and as strong as some grades of rag fiber papers made from the lower grades of rags.

The results obtained are considered so promising that it is planned to purchase the additional commercial equipment for use in the recovery plant of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing required to produce a clean pulp and to more thoroughly de-water it so as to lower the transportation cost of the product.

All radio stations in France have been placed under the general administration of the Post Telegraph and Telephone Service and the Ministry of the Interior.

COMMITTEE INSPECTS BOILER AT SCHOOL

The boiler in the Outagamie Normal Training school was examined Monday afternoon by the building and grounds committee of the county board to determine whether it will be necessary to install a soft water system in the building. A sample of the coating on the inside of the boiler will be examined by a plumbing expert, who is expected to decide whether a water softener will be as acceptable as the soft water system. The usual bills also were allowed by the committee.

WON'T HOLD INQUEST INTO DEATH OF MAN

It is not likely than an inquest into the death of Albert Marquardt, 33, Fremont, who was found dead early Sunday morning along the railroad tracks at Dale, will be held, it appeared Monday. Neither the district attorney nor county coroner had received notive of an inquest. The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at Fremont.

CITIZENS RUN STREET CARS WITHOUT PROFIT

Clarksville, Tenn.—(AP)— The nickel lost one of its best friends when the Clarksville trolley system increased its fare to seven cents.

But Clarksville folk, proud of their three trolleys and three and a half miles of trackage, refrain from criticism, because they know the Citizens Railway company holds a unique position in the annals of municipal transportation organizations.

Serving 15,000 persons, the trolley company is capitalized at only $3,300 of stock held by 187 representative citizens who expect no profit but adequate service.

W. E. Beach, coal dealer and former mayor, is president and general manager, but draws no pay check. Likewise without financial return are the vice president, secretary and treasurer. In fact, Allen H. Harris, superintendent, is the only paid executive. He gets $27.50 a week.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Folsom's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichaq, an Oriental knife, and it has been bought on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curious weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the pichaq.

Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is intrigued by some curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

Croydon Sears' initials are discovered in a notebook of Folsom's and Pelton thinks his uncle had been doing some blackmailing. ROBIN SEARS, Croydon's son, is worried now that suspicion is resting on his father. Riggs tells him he has learned that Croydon Sears had purchased a third dagger.

ANGELICA FAIR, Robin's fiancee, questions ROSS, the dead man's former valet, who tells her he thinks Sears had visited at Folsom's home.

The elder Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective, who arrives soon after.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVII

With Croydon Sears and Fleming Stone came also Tite Riggs, who was deeply impressed with Stone's ... having expected a much more ... and business-like personage.

For Fleming Stone was one who to a marked degree, took color from his surroundings.

And now at sight of the ... the intervening boardwalk with its blare of color and ... the gay bustle of the immediate crowd on the hotel deck, Stone's rather careworn air dropped from him and he smiled with the delight of a child at the spectacle.

"Never been here before," he explained, taking it all in rapidly, as he seated himself. "I've been to the New England coast resorts and the southern and western ones. But never before chanced on New Jersey's shores. Most attractive, too. Well, I suppose that's the spot where the body was found." and he swept his arm vaguely toward the wide expanse of sea.

"That's about it," agreed Croydon Sears. "But I say, old man, if you'd rather take holiday today and not even consider the case until tomorrow, just say so."

"Oh no, I'd rather hear the details right off. Then we can have a sea food dinner, and then we can have a boat at the bright lights or whatever they offer by way of evening entertainment. Then we can come back here and settle down to the real work in hand."

Stone's pleasant smile rested on Robin, and all at once the boy felt confidence and surety that there was no further trouble in store for his father with a man like that at the helm.

So with a light heart he went off in search of his Angel, and the three men settled down to consideration of their case.

"Don't think I'm mind-wandering if I gaze about," Stone said, smiling. "I love to absorb these sights and sounds, and instead of distracting my attention they help to concentrate it."

"You know, of course, the main details of the Folsom murder?" said Sears.

"Yes. All that was in the papers, and all that I could piece it myself from the newspaper reports. That's all. What else can you tell me?"

"I," Sears said, "will tell you my own personal and individual connection with the matter, and then Riggs will tell you what he knows or thinks about other people."

"You have a personal and individual connection with it then?" Stone asked.

"Yes, or I shouldn't have called you down here in such haste. I've no desire to be arrested ... that may ... I like to head off the ... and ... policemen."

"They are ... ?"

"Very much after ... you see, Fleming, I ... "

"Did it pay?"

"It begins to look as if it didn't. But that's for you to pass upon then. You see, the inquiry naturally hinges largely on the question of the weapon."

"They know about that, don't they?"

"Yes; that is, they assume, and doubtless truly, that the pichaq found in the ocean is the one that killed Folsom. Now, they know also that I bought two daggers that night in the same place that the deadly weapon was, presumably, bought. They know taht I have those two daggers here in my possession, and they have no further interest in them. But they have a deep interest in the man who bought what is called a bundle at the same shop later the same evening."

"They don't know who he was?"

"No; and of late they have come to the conclusion that it was I."

"It wasn't?"

"No, it wasn't. I mean the murderer wasn't. But I did return to that shop later that evening, and I did buy a bundle that contained two odd, insignificant looking daggers. And, when they asked me at the inquest if I had returned to the shop that night, I said no."

"H'm." Fleming Stone looked at his friend with a glance of affection and trust. Not for a moment did he question the good faith of Sears toward himself, whatever he might have done on the witness stand.

"I did it," Sears went on, "because if I had said I went back there, they would have at once assumed that it was one of my daggers that killed Folsom, and it wasn't."

"And to have the matter brought into question would have wrought harm to someone else." Stone said, understandingly.

"Exactly. A harm and a someone else that I couldn't allow."

"No. Well, it got you into a snarl?"

"It has begun to look that way. Here's the truth. You listen in, Riggs. Garrett Folsom had a pleasant little way of making capital out of other people's secrets."

"It has been done, I've heard," remarked Stone.

"Yes. Well, he didn't make a big business of this; he only used a few ... secrets belonging to a few ... friends or enemies of his. And I was harried with a place among these. The secret of mine that he knew had to do with my family tree. It is not of a ... nature, but it is unfortunate. It is a blot on the Sears name ... alone, will never be brought into the limelight and can harm ... If exposed and misunderstood ... it could be, it would mean ... not deep, because of its very ... but a hint of blackness ... would mar the future of my boy ... that would perhaps stand in the way ... of my son. Robin I ... am willing to be more explicit, I am willing to tell you the whole story, but not at this moment."

"Nor ever," said Fleming Stone, while Riggs nodded in assent. "God on, Croy. You felt that if you were questioned at all this thing would come out?"

"Yes, just that. I knew I was innocent of Folsom's death, but those hounds of the law would think, and with reason, that as I had bought more daggers that night, I must of necessity be the one who had made the fatal stab. So I denied having returned and let my case rest on the daggers I had bought while with Meeker, who could vouch for the truth of my story."

"Why didn't they know you when you went back and bought the last lot?"

"I don't know. I chanced to buy them from a man I didn't know, but the other clerks stood about. It's a big shop. But the point is that somebody else did go there about the same time I did and buy the bundle that held the dagger that killed Garrett Folsom. That's the man we're to find."

"That's the man we're to find," said Fleming Stone.

The program Stone had suggested was carried out, and, as a result, it was late in the evening before the conference took place.

In the meantime the detective had observed the principals of the case, as pointed out to him by Sears at dinner time, and also had gathered sidelights from the remarks and comments of the rest of their immediate party.

The Barrons liked Stone at once, for no one could do otherwise.

Fleming Stone was of a type that could command interest if he chose, or if it better suited his purpose, he could make himself so inconspicuous, so insignificant, that he attracted no attention whatever.

On this occasion he was charming, a man of the world, a good talker, a polite guest, and both receptive and responsive to the moods of the others.

Madeline Barron, at first embarrassed at thought of meeting the celebrated detective, soon found herself at case in his presence and meeting his chaff with a gayety of her own.

Angel, too, was fascinated by the newcomer, and Robin declared she had forgotten his very existence in her attention to this new rival.

Ned Barron, in his big, hearty way, smiled genially on them all. But Barron took little part in the light banter.

(To Be Continued)

DANISH PRINCE IS A COMPETENT SAILOR

Copenhagen, Denmark—(AP)—Prince Knud, younger of the two sons of King Christian and Queen Alexandrine, prides himself on the fact that he is a sailor of the first order and is equally at home on the bridge or in the engine room.

The Prince is 27, which makes him 16 months the junior of Crown Prince Frederick, both of whom are serving in the Danish navy.

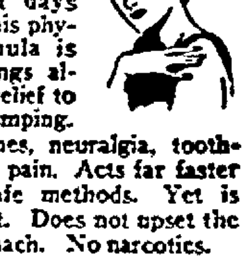

Fellow officers say Prince Knud is probably the most painstaking officer in the entire navy complement, as he frequents all the technical courses and has taken his examinations with flying colors.

Prince Knud is tall, good looking, and the Danes consider him a hail fellow well met and rubs shoulders with duke's son or cook's son, so long as the man is an upright one and is willing to do his bit, whatever that might be. Because of his democratic attitude, at work and at play, it is often said of Knud that he is the most popular of the younger set of royalty of all the northern countries.

Approximately 1,000,000 miners in Great Britain mined 5,267,000 tons of coal in a recent week.

M'WHORTER SEES WAY TO ATTRACT VOTERS TO POLLS

Giddy Brain of Noted Senator Evolves New Plan to Get Out Vote

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—"I see by the papers," mused Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter, "that less than 50 per cent of our eligible voters went to the polls in the last election.

"Oh, the shame of it!"

"Senator McWhorter," spoke up your correspondent, earnestly, "the people look to you in this hour. It is time for you to come forward. Someone must devise ways and means to bring the people to the neglected polls. Someone must show us how to increase pluralities and pile up bigger and better landslides. Have you —"

"Say no more," broke in Senator McWhorter, leaping forth from his muse. "The people shall not look in vain

"I shall furnish the key and Congress, in its wisdom, shall unlock the door. Come November, 1928, and you shall see the polls besieged like a public peep-hole at a ladies' Turkish bath. Men, women and children will vote early and often and the ballots will be deposited in warehouses instead of boxes.

"You may say for me that, come December, when Congress, in its wisdom, again assembles, I shall formally propose a constitutional amendment to achieve this end.

"My project, which calls for a comparatively small appropriation, envisages an all-embracing campaign designed to decoy all classes of our citizenry to the booths.

"In each precinct we will appoint a paid committee to plan our various appeals. First the committee will spread the word that excavation is about to begin in a vacant lot next to the polling place and that here is a splendid chance to see a steam-shovel in action. This will insure a goodly gathering at the outset.

"Then there will be announced on election day a treasure hunt. The clews will lead directly to the booths. This will attract the better classes—ahem, that is, the society people—and before they know it, they will be casting their votes.

"The committee will spread the word that John Barrymore will be present at the polling places, in tights, which will mean that all housewives and working girls will be on hand. To make sure of getting every woman in the precinct, including the blind, we will also announce that the first woman to arrive will be given a potted plant, to take home. The appropriation will provide for purchase of potted plants.

"The gambling element will be lured by a promise that fitting prizes will be awarded for lucky numbers on the ballots.

"To get the older men, we will hire artists to paint gilt letters on plate-glass windows. To get the younger men we will announce the opening of a new speakeasy on the second floor. Bootleggers, pickpockets and holdup men will come anyway, when they appreciate the size of the crowd.

"Perfect, isn't it?"

Of course, it is admitted, a certain amount of deceit is involved. John Barrymore can't be everywhere. Still doesn't the end justify the means if the people can be awakened to a new consciousness?

"And think of the government jobs there'll be on those committees!" concluded Senator J. Boomboom McWhorter.

Many Breakfasts Are Not Good Meals For Children

Madison—Because the average family breakfast includes many articles of diet unfitted for the child's digestive ability the health committee of the State Medical society issued a bulletin indicating the foods which should be served to children.

"Grapefruit, dry cereals with large portions of sugar and cream, and fried eggs are repeatedly given at breakfast to a child whose best interests could be better served by a few simple manipulations of, and institutions of like articles of food. Orange in place of the grapefruit cooked cereal in place of the dry cereal, and soft boiled, poached or coddled egg in place of the fried egg would constitute a meal which the child could much more easily digest.

"In a general way the child's breakfast should consist of fruit, cooked cereals; milk, thin cream, bread and butter and egg. After the age of four years, meat such as lamb or mutton chop, cold roast beef or chicken may be added to the morning meal in place of the egg, if so desired, for the sake of variation. Bacon, although a fatty food, is well tolerated in small amounts. Such foods as hot breads, as buckwheat cakes, pancakes, soggy toast, fritters, sausage, fried food of any sort and such beverages as tea and coffee have no place in the child's dietary at breakfast or any other time.

"Of the main articles mentioned in the above list, cereals constitute an important item. The cereals cooked in the home are more easily digested than those cooked elsewhere. Cream of wheat, wheatena, farina, sermea, Pettijohn and oatmeal offer a wide enough selection of the ready to serve cereals. These cereals should be served with milk or thin cream and a little sugar. Cream especially, should not be too liberally used upon the cereals because cow's milk fat fed regularly in fairly large amounts is very apt to lead to digestive and retabolic disturbance. Sugar in large amounts also is apt to lead to trouble.

"Milk — pasteurized or boiled — should be taken at breakfast time as part of the daily intake or one quart. It is inadvisable to add cocoa or chocolate to it. They add little to the nutritive value of the milk and to disturn the digestion of many children.

"In regard to the fruits acceptable to the child's digestion it is a safe precaution to regard all raw fruit, with a few exceptions, as unfit articles of diet. The younger the child the more particularly is this true. Orange juice can safely be given to the youngest infant, but orange pulp is best withheld until the age of three years. Grape fruit is not suitable for young children. It is very acid and the pulp is coarse and indigestible. Many children can digest bananas, especially when thoroughly ripe. Scrapped apple is also well tolerated. All other fruits, however, are best cooked until the age of 5 years.

"Fried eggs should never be given to children. Omelettes even when plain are much less digestible than are eggs which are boiled, coddled, poached or scrambled. Few children can take eggs more than once daily without getting into trouble. Many of them cannot take them more than three times a week. Bread should be at least forty-eight hours old before it is given to children. Bread which is dried in the oven or thoroughly toasted through is very easily digested. Toast should not be buttered until it is eaten. Buttered toast is indigestible because it is soggy and the fat in the butter has been heated."

COLUMBUS SCHOOL HAS GREAT SAVINGS RECORD

Columbus grade school has "possibly the most spectacular school savings record in America," according to the April Thrift Almanack of Thrift, Inc., school banking system. Not only have all of the 230 pupils enrolled in the school accounts, but for five successive years, every bank day, they have made deposits. "100 per cent for five years."

"The record is actually higher than that," the announcement continued as Miss Margaret Comerford, the principal encourages the deposits of absentees, sick pupils sending in their books and deposits."

Appleton high school was third in its banking record in high schools of a population between 500 and 1,000 in the United States. Two Wisconsin schools precede it: West Green Bay and Manitowoc schools. These had records of 100 per cent and 99.8 per cent respectively, and Appleton had 99.3 per cent.

Is the Wife to Blame

When Her Husband Grows Tired of Her?

"I NOW pronounce you man and wife."

Just a few simple, beautiful, solemnly impressive words—but how fraught with future happiness or woe!

Is marriage the beginning of romance—or is it the end? If a man grows tired of his wife, who is to blame?

Many a wife lives in a fool's paradise. She thinks because she is wedded to the man she loves that she can safely rest on her laurels. For he now belongs to her.

She forgets that "getting" and "holding" are not the same. If his affection cools, she attributes it to "business worries." If she discovers that he no longer cares—it rarely occurs to her to wonder if the fault lies in herself.

Too late, she may suspect "the other woman." But when he confesses the truth—and she realizes that as a wife she has proved a wretched failure—can she win him back again? Can she regain the love she has lost through her own ignorance and folly?

This is the situation that confronted the wife in that vivid, heart-throbbing, never-to-be-forgotten story of real life, "My Stolen Husband," which appears in the May issue of True Story Magazine. It is a situation that, all too often, has resulted in broken homes, broken hearts, and broken lives. Every self-satisfied wife, and every girl who contemplates marriage, should read this compelling story. It will give all women something to think about.

That is why it is the world's most popular magazine. Through True Story you share the most intimate of human secrets—the passions, temptations and struggles of life that could never be revealed any other way. Read, for example:

"My Years of Folly"—If a deep and wonderful love is a prize worth guarding and keeping, Evelyn should have been supremely happy. But stronger than love was the desire for a career. So she followed the lure of ambition—but could she have looked ahead to see where that road would lead—her as straight-laced, old-fashioned—but for once she decided to "play the game." What happened is a true-life narrative that every girl in America—and every father and mother, too—should read.

"Youth's Madness"—When a girl falls in with the wrong crowd, anything can happen. A week-end cottage, gay companions, drinking, dancing, petting—and all restraint seems thrown to the winds. Beth's friends had laughed at

THE GO-GETTER
(A Maiden Musing)
By Evelyn Rodgers

He hung his hat upon the rack
And slapped my father on the back;
Pinched my Auntie on the jaw;
Called my startled mother, "Maw."
Talked and talked all during dinner;
Winked and called me "Little Sinner."
Said the salad was delicious;
Helped to clear away the dishes.
(Give him that—he was no shirker.)
"Gosh," I thought, "A rapid worker."

Said: "Here's tickets for a show;
I want all you folks to go.
"Raus mit you! Here, beat it! Raus!
Sis and I will watch the house."
Whee! he made me wobble-kneed!
"Gosh," I thought, "This boy has speed!"
After they were gone we sat
On the davenport to chat.
There we sat and sat and sat;
Simply sat and sat and sat;
There he sat—my smart go-getter,
Had a girl and couldn't pet her!

Tongued-tied as a bashful hick;
Silent as a paving prick!
Then some people say (my land!)
Girls are hard to understand!!!

NEW LONDON SENDS SAME MEN BACK INTO GOVERNMENTS

Very Little Interest is Displayed in Spring Election

New London.—The spring election was the most unexciting in this city for years. Only few more than 400 votes were cast. There was little competition for any office. Ike Poepke, running without opposition for supervisor received a total vote of 37. Fred Archibald, also without opposition received a total vote of 349. In the race for alderman in the Second ward Mathew Clark received a vote of 40, Frank Longrie 23 and Lyle Kellog 6. In the First ward Gustav Fuerst was elected with a vote of 41 votes. M. M. Boland was elected supervisor with 47 votes. F. A. Archibald was re-elected police justice receiving 349 votes.

Henry Fuerst won for supervisor with a vote of 44. Henry Knapstein was elected alderman with 50 votes. John Croak was elected school commissioner with 48 votes.

The Fourth ward elected John Parfitt for alderman with 143 votes. Andrew Rumanoff was reelected supervisor receiving a vote of 128.

Voters in the Fifth ward elected Louis Hoffman for alderman with 63 votes over 41 for William Ploetz. Albert O. Zerrenner was reelected school commissioner with 73 votes and Jacob Werner was reelected supervisor with 71 votes.

On the referendum ballot, the salary increase was defeated by a vote of 148 to 132 and the Forestry amendment carried 183 to 91.

Follow The Eyes Of The Crowd!

America has the bulletin board habit.

Crowds of people on the street are always ready to stop for a moment in front of newspaper offices to read the latest telegraphic reports of interest.

Our newspapers themselves are glorified bulletin boards that furnish us with the condensed happenings of the day.

It is no more than natural that people who seem too much on the move to have time for more than vital bits and jottings of information should find the service of the Post-Crescent's Classified Section exactly suited to their needs.

The Post-Crescent's system of arrangement of its Classified Section means that the ads are not only brief and to the point, but indexed, alphabetically listed and grouped conveniently for immediate reference.

Here is a bulletin board of thrift that tells YOU in a flash just what offers might prove of special interest and profit to you each day.

Read the Classified Section regularly!

Contralto Won Fame From Humble Start In Europe

SCHUMANN-HEINK

Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink, great contralto of the American and European concert stage for the past 50 years, will sing at Lawrence Memorial chapel Friday evening under the auspices of the Appleton Womans club. This is a part of her golden jubilee concert tour to mark the close of her concert career.

She was born 65 years ago in Austria, the daughter of an Italian mother and a Bohemian father who was a poorly paid officer in the army. The child was placed in the Urseline convent at Prague when she was 12 years old and it was there that a nun discovered her remarkable voice. She was designated to sing in the Cathedral where Madame Le Claire, French prima donna, heard her and begged to give her lessons. So her family moved to Gratz where the prima donna lived, and Excellence Benedek, a well-to-do army officer, provided funds for her lessons for several years.

The girl was sent to the director of the Hof opera in Vienna. He looked at her and said, "With such a face and no personality she could never hope to be a singer. She might better go home and run a sewing machine." Undaunted, she made a successful concert debut in Gratz and went to Dresden to study under Franz W. Wuellner. It was not long before she made her operatic debut as "Azucena" in "Il Trovatore" at the Dresden opera.

She remained with this royal opera company for four years being married in the third, and then progressed to Hamburg. Her husband died there leaving her with five children and pitifully small pay.

During an engagement in Berlin opera she met Lillian Nordica who took an interest in her and begged her to come to America, but she was first to have the great honor of singing in the Wagnerian shrine at Bayreuth. For two years Maurice Grau, impresario of the Metropolitan opera in New York city tried to secure her for America but another contract with the Hamburg opera prevented her coming here until 1899. The American public accepted her and from $5 a performance in the Hamburg opera she soon earned more than $180,000 in a single year.

C. OF C. MEMBERS HEAR REPORTS OF YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

Traffic Department Lauded as One of Chamber's Greatest Accomplishments

Roy Marston, H. L. Davis R. T. Gage, Harry Sylvester and John Watson were elected directors of Appleton Chamber of Commerce, it was reported by election judges at the seventh annual meeting of the chamber Wednesday evening at the Conway hotel. Members of the chamber nominating committee were E. A. Schmalz, chairman, A. C. Remley R. A. Peterson, R. E. Carneross and Dr. A. E. Rector.

The program opened with solos by Mrs. Wilbur Johnsten. Presidents of the chamber since its organization in 1920 until 1926 were presented with engraved certificates in appreciation of the services. The presentation was made by J. L. Johns, who acted as toastmaster. The certificates were presented to W. C Wing, president from 1920 to 1921; Lother Graef, 1921 to 1923; E. A. Schmalz, 1923 to 1924, Joseph Koffend, Jr., 1924 to 1925.

Members of the common council and past president were guests at the meeting. Brief reports were made by Elmer Jennings, retiring president; W. O. Theide, treasurer; Hugh G. Corbett, secretary; Roy G. Wort, traffic manager; and Joseph Koffend, Jr., notional councilar of the local chamber.

Shippers of Appleton have paid a penalty of more than $16,000 yearly for the last 11 years because of their ignorance of freight conditions and expensive laws made in the days when there was no local traffic bureau to combat them. Mr. Jennings said in his report of the year's work in which he stressed the establishment of the chamber traffic department.

Green Bay has been getting a much better rate on its shipments to the east on the same tonnage, Mr. Jennings said. The chamber is working more for the devlopment of present local industries than to bring new industries here, he said.

Mr. Jennings said that if the proposed freight rates of Western line carriers are approved $750,000 additional freight would be paid yearly by Appleton firms. The traffic department is fighting the proposed raise. Other important work of the department is furnishing routing information, auditing freight bills and giving general freight information. The speaker concluded his report by telling how Louis C. Gettle, chairman of the Wisconsin railroad commission had complimented Mr. Wort as one of the most efficient traffic managers in the state, saying that his statistics, charts and figures on traffic matters were the best turned in to the commission.

$19,696 INCOME

W. O. Thiede, treasurer, reported receipts of $19,696.53 for the year and disbursements of $19,255.98, leaving a balance of $440.55. The chamber has assets of $11,336.02, mostly in certificates of deposit. It has no liabilities.

Mr. R. Wort told of the first important case of the traffic department in which he protested against an old freight rate which was unreasonable and which had cost shippers $11,500 in six months. The traffic department succeeded in changing the rate. He said that the present fight against the proposed raise in rates in Western trunk line territory was the most important case as it reached the roots of rate troubles. Among the accomplishments of his department since its establishment was the compilation and publication of a 200-page book, How To Ship Less Than Carload Freight to and from Appleton, giving all the information on the matter.

Mr. Corbett again stressed the traffic study in his report, which was a detailed list of the most impotrant accomplishments of the chamber in the last year. The report now is in the hands of the printers and will be sent to members soon, he said. Major accomplishments of the chamber the last year beside the traffic study, according to his report were:

The veteran employes-safety school dinner, publication and distribution of 12,000 pamphlets on Appleton, distribution of over 160 trade directories of Appleton's business; the monthly bulletins and members pamphlets; the "How To Ship" book.

Work in the better Cities contest, municipal golf, Christmas greetings to tourists who visited here the past summer, assistance in the Wisconsin Land O' Lakes campaign, participation in the national fire waste contest, cooperation with the American legion in securing civic banners to replace the American flags used by local merchants in front of their business places.

Cooperation with the Appleton Ministerial association in closing gambling devices at carnivals, an Appleton products display at the state fair at Milwaukee, welcome to newcomers, the annual farm festival and farm meetings, the effort to get Winnebago-co to pave Lake-rd., a milk week campaign, motor to Appleton week, advertising signs in the surrounding country and the joint tax problem meeting held here.

Joseph Koffend, Jr., national councillar of the local chamber, told of referendums on two measupres on which a vote of all chambers was desired by the national chamber. On the most important, a local taxation measure, the local chamber favored ten proposals and opposed one and it was adopted just that way nationally. Mr. Koffend told of the fifteenth annual meeting of the national chamber this summer at which the subject, a New Business Era, will be discussed. Mr. Jennings will represent the local chamber.

Lenten Service

Special lenten services will be held at 7:45 Wednesday night at Mt. Olive Lutheran church. Behold the Man, the sixth sermon of the lenten series, will be the subject of the address.

Women's Old-Time Hygiene

Disappearing—New way discards like tissue

BY ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THE worries and fear of the uncertain hygienic ways of yesterday are rapidly passing. 8 in 10 better class women employ a new way called Kotex.

✓ Kotex discards like tissue. No laundry, no disposal bother.

Being 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," it permits lightest gowns and frocks without danger. Dance, motor, go about for hours without a moment's doubt.

Deodorizes, too, thus ending all fear of offense. Doctors urge this way.

Many stores have Kotex already wrapped on counters, ready for you to pick up without even asking for it.

Try today and you'll never again risk uncertain old ways. Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.
